SACCO JUDGE REFUSES TO STAY EXECUTION

(International News Service Wire.)

DEDHAM, MASS., Aug. 9.—In a thirteen word sentence Judge Webster Thayer today denied a motion for a stay of revocation of sentence for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, doomed to die in the electric chair in states' prison for a double slaying.

The decision, handed down in Norfolk County Superior Court, read:

> The motion for revocation of sentence and stay of execution is hereby denied.
> WEBSTER THAYER,
> Justice of the Superior Court.

DENIES PREJUDICE

The motion denied today by Judge Thayer was based upon alleged prejudice by him outside of the courtroom while the trial was under way, charges that he denied from the bench.

The decision appeared to kill the last vestige of hope of saving the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti via the Massachusetts courts. An "eleventh-hour" appeal to the United States courts was said by defense forces to be ready.

Counsel for Vanzetti and Sacco later filed with the clerk of the State Supreme Court an appeal from the decision of Supreme Court Judge George A. Sanderson denying the condemned men a writ of error.

Man Dies in Leap From Flyer

Leaping from the window of the Pittsburgh-bound Cleveland flyer, traveling 65 miles an hour, at Glenfield this afternoon, a man believed to have been Francis McElwee, aged about 65, of Chicago, was killed.

The man raised a day coach window and lunged through it, according to Mrs. Edward Johnson, wife of a Pennsylvania Railroad conductor, who was sitting in a seat with him.

'Sally'—She Smiles Back at Knocks

The relentless fury of the fates struck Sally Jerome, just 20 and pretty, in the form of a helpless family.

Like Atlas, that god of the early world, she faced the task of burdens almost beyond endurance resting on her trim, strong young shoulders. Both held up by might their own worlds.

Many young women, and many young men for that matter, have been broken in body and spirit by the accumulation of difficulties when theye were too young, too untrained, too unwilling to take big disappointments with a smile, and shake off worries prematureley arrived.

Sally liked to dance. Sally smiled as a matter of course. Sally was blue-eyeed, shapely, and loveable.

Miss Beatrice Burton has made a happy choice of heorine in her newest serial novel, "Sally's Shoulders." With a faculty for seeing the inner lives of the youth of America today, she searched for a young woman, and finally discovered that in every locality, in every community, in every city and home and office, there was one whose shoulders who could uphold any task. There were many young women who were undertaking tasks that might well bend their supple figures, and break them. She found that the brave, the strong, the kind-hearted and cheery young women of the world of today were the womene that were carrying the burdens.

And to this type of courageous womanhood she dedicates this young, blithe Sally Jerome—the heroine of "Sally's Shoulders."

There are numerous other characteres in the story, which is a vivid stimulating drama of the American home today. It is a story whereby

NIP PLOT ON FULLER'S LIFE.

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Two men, said by police to be "bombers" from New York, were under arrest this afternoon, police believing they had nipped in the bud a bomb plot on the life of Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, who handed down and adverse decision in the celebrated case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—One thousand patrolmen were posted at Union Square today and smaller detachments were placed at some 30 halls throughout the city to preserve order during what its leaders said would be the biggest strike in the history of New York, called for one day in protest against the impending execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

OAKMONT 3 DIE IN CRASH

MEADVILLE, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Three persons were killed, one of them dying instantly, when a large sedan in which they were the sole occupants was struck by an interurban trolley car 15 miles north of Meadville shortly before noon today.

The Dead:

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Tomlinton, Washington avenue, Oakmont, Pittsburgh.

Miss Elizabeth Elliott, also of Oakmont.

The party, camping along French Creek during the past week, had been to a neighboring town, Venango borough, and returing to their camp had just turned into the private driveway.

BUCS PLAY WITHOUT CUYLER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

FORBES FIELD, Aug. 9.—A big crowd for a week day was assembled at the Oakland Orchard this afternoon when the Pirates and Giants hooked up in the second game of the series. There were no signs of the rain of yesterday which caused a postponement. On the contrary, the field was in fine shape.

Before the game Manager Bush announced that Outfielder Cuyler had been benched.

Lee Meadows and Burleigh Grimes, two veteran righthanders, were pitted against each other on the mound. Grimes, who once wore the Pittsburgh regalia, is one of the few remaining fingers of the fading spitball. The Pirates have beaten Grimes frequently in the past two seasons, but the former Dodger scored a shutout success against the Buccos at the Polo Grounds in his last meeting with the Pittsburghers.

24 HOMES BURNED IN MINING TOWN

Five shots fired by a woman at 2 o'clock this morning, following a series of explosions, called out the fire departments at Springdale, New Kensington, Parnassus and elsewhere to fight a blaze which destroyed a block of 12 double dwellings owned by the Diamond Coal and Coke Company at Barking station.

As a result of the blaze, five families, a total of 25 persons, are homeless and practically penniless. Nearly all their clothing and household effects were destroyed. Because of the miners' strike, the men are jobless. They are: John Dautovich, wife and four children; John Petryka, wife and four children; Andrew Lolo, wife and four children; George Karocus, wife and four children, and Mike Dautovich.

The firing of the shots attracted the attention of John Troeger, night patrolman at Springdale, across the river. He went out to investigate the shots and saw everything was apparently ablaze across the river.

Troeger notified the telephone operator at Springdale who called fire departments of Allegheny valley towns.

The Diamond Coal and Coke Company is a subsidiary of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company.

Some of the residents of the vicinity heard, what they thought was a series of explosions, following the shots fired by a woman to arouse the neighborhood. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

F. B. Dunbar, general manager of the company, said that seven of the houses were empty and five occupied. Mr. Dunbar believes the fire was caused by the explosion of a still in the cellar of the structure where it started. He is not certain as to the cause and this is being investigated.

A rumor said a man employed on a dredgeboat started a fire in a grate to dry his clothing and that the blaze occurred sometime later.

New Kensington firemen estimate the loss at between $50,000 and $60,000.

LANG LAYS DELAY TO COUNCIL

Council's refusal to create 11 jobs in the Bureau of tests with salaries totalling $18,030 a year is delaying city street and sewer projects, according to Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works.

Councilman James F. Malone took the position, in which his colleagues concurred, that men employed on work about completed can be used on the contemplated projects. He declared Council will not ignore the budget by adding more employes to the payroll without an expression from Mayor Charles H. Kline, who will have to take the initiative for the 1928 budget.

By Council's action the zoning law is now amended to permit the erection of buildings 425 feet high by adding towers above the 265-foot allowed in the original law.

This removes legal objection to the proposed Strassburger building on Grant street between Third and Fourth avenues and the Koppers Company building, Grant street and Seventh avenue. The law, as amended, permits towers rising flush with the building line on one side of the structure with a 40-foot setback on the opposite and 20-foot setback on each of the other two sides.

Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, today forwarded to Mayor Charles H. Kline at Piri Beach, O., the city's summer "White House," an emergency ordinance for repairs to Ellsworth avenue bridge over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks that requires the Mayor's signature. The paper contains the name of Controller John H. Henderson, as required by law. The span has been in need of replacements for years, due to attacks from locomotive fumes.

46 GAINADAY SALESMEN LEAVE AFTER TOUR HERE

Forty-six salesmen of the New Gainaday Electric Washers left for their homes in New York state and Eastern Pennsylvania, after being the guests of the Gainaday Electric Company. The trip was a reward to the salesmen who had a sales record of more than 20 washers each in 20 days' time. The group was headed by D. C. Cunningham, eastern sales manager, and R. E. McMillin, of the Electric Supply and Equipment Company. The men were taken on sight-seeing trips; a trip to the baseball game, and a farewell banquet at Webster Hall.

Sacco Executioner Is Calm But Cautious; Has Gun Handy

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A special police guard has been posted about the home of Robert Elliott of Richmond Hill, Queens, the executioner who will throw the switch that will send Sacco and Vanzetti to their death in the electric chair at Boston.

With a high-powered rifle and a double-barreled shotgun at his side, Elliott rested at his home with his family on the eve of the executions, calmly reading newspapers and smoking his pipe.

Elliott is executioner for four states.

JUDGE REFUSES STAY

Judge Sanderson's decision was rendered yesterday.

The petition alleges that the denial of the writ by Judge Sanderson constituted a violation o fthe defendants' rights under both the Massachusetts and Federal Constitutions.

The move was taken as a step in the efforts of the defense to utilize every possibility of the state courts before seeking action in the Federal courts, to which as yet no appeal has been made.

If this fails it is expected that Sacco and Vanzetti will go to their death in the electric chair at the state prison in the Charleston district early Thursday morning.

"CAN DO NO MORE"

ROME, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Answering a plea from Michele Sacco for his personal intervention to prevent the execution of Michele's son, Nicola, in Massachusetts, Premier Mussolini has telegraphed him:

"I desire to communicate to you that for a long time, and assiduously, I have occupied myself with the Sacco-Vanzetti case, and I have done everything possible compatible with international rules to save them from execution."

MOB STORMS LEGATION

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—An excited mob of 10,000 persons attempted to storm the United States legation at Stockholm, Sweden, last night, said a Central News dispatch from that city today. A strong cordon of mounted police beat back the mob, arresting several of the ringleaders.

Disorderly scenes took place in other parts of the city as the result of Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations.

DISPERSE MOB

CHERBOURG, France, Aug. 9—(AP.)—A crowd demonstrating in front of the American consulate here last night against the forthcoming execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, swept through the police barrier about the building and sang the Internationale until reserves dispersed them. A few of the manifestants and some of the police suffered slight injuries during the clash.

BURN AMERICAN FLAG

PARIS, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The American flag was reported burned Sunday evening at Casablanca, Morocco, during a demonstration in favor of Sacco and Vnazetti held in front of the Americn consulate in the Place de France, says a dispatch to Le Matin. The police dispersed the demonstrators but the latter returned later and threw stones, breaking windows in the consulate.

Laborite demonstrations of sympathy with Sacco and Vanzetti, some of which ended in fights with the police, were held last night in several French industrial centers.

Besides the clash in front of the American consulate at Cherbourg, there was trouble at Marseilles and Nante.

FUR SHOPS LOOTED

Padded bricks crashed almost simultaneously through the plate glass windows of two furriers early this morning and window thieves escaped with fur coats valued at $3,300. These were the third and fourth fur robberies in 24 hours.

At 4:20 o'clock this morning a brick, padded heavily with thick cloth, crashed through the window of Max Asen, 1023 Fifth avenue, and a fur coat valued at $300 was snatched from within. Agents from the Holmes Electric Protective Agency, having received an alarm, rushed to the scene, but found no trace of the thieves.

SECOND ALARM

Five minutes later, while the agents were investigating at the Asen establishment, another alarm was received by the agency when a wrapped brick was hurled through the fur show window of Rosenblum's, 127 South Highland avenue. Three fur coats, valued at $3,000 were stolen. It was the fourth robbery of the Rosenblum establishment within two years.

Yesterday morning a similar robbery took place in the shop of Sam Schechter, 221 Oliver avenue, when two men hurled a brick through the show window and stole a fur coat valued at $1,275.

the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

The members were ordered to picket public buildings, according to Henry J. Lenon, former special investigator for the United States Department of Justice, who said that the orders were received by R. Jakira, 805 James street, North Side, and 35 Miller street.

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner and Federal District Attorney John D. Meyer authorized Lenon to take charge of the investigation here.

Increased vigilance on the part of city and county authorities, including the placing of special guards at the homes of all the federal judges, marked today's activities to guard against possible violence on the part of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers. Guards on all public buildings, churches and bridges were maintained and word was sent out to all patrolmen in the city to be on the lookout for pickets believed ready to stage a demonstration in this district.

Lenon told city and county detectives he had learned that sympathizers were to appear in the district bearing "sandwih boards," placards and other literature appealing for the men under sentence of death in Massachusetts. Police were instructed to arrest any person participating in such demonstration.

Two men were arrested on suspicious person charges. John Trebovitch, 52, of 2402 Sarah street, picked up near the South Side Carnegie Library, was discharged when he explained his actions to Magistrate J. J. Sweeney this morning.

Harry J. Smith, 37, of 820 South Sixth street, Louisville, Ky., who told authorities he was living at the Keystone Hotel, was taken into custody near the county morgue early today while asking questions about the county buildings. He told authorities he was a mechanical engineer. He is being held in Central Police Station.

THREATS MAILED HERE

Three inflammatory postcards, believed mailed by Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers in Pittsburgh, two of them addressed to President Coolidge and the third to the United States Supreme Court, today were returned to United States District Attorney John D. Meyer from Washington, where they had been intercepted.

All three cards bore postmarks of the North Side station and were mailed at 7 p. m. August 4.

The card addressed to the Supreme Court bore the message: "They got you fixed, too. Free Sacco and Vanzetti. If there is any more trouble in our ranks we are going to wipe you big birds out. Mark my word. E. J. K."

The card to President Coolidge, besides containing some scurrilous terms, advised him to "keep low."

He Won't Be Tin Saint That's Why Lindy Smoked.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh during the dinner given in his honor here Saturday night smoked a cigaret and though hundreds of persons saw him do it no one saw anything unusual in it until today.

The smoking was said to have been the outcome of an incident in which Lindbergh told his "pal," Phillip Love, "I won't be played for a tin saint."

He was said to have told Love that a national women's organization is sending out circulars calling on the young men of the country "to follow Lindy's example and abstain from smoking cigarets."

"I am going to smoke a cigaret at that dinner tonight and I don't care what they say about it," Lindbergh was quoted as saying to Love. "I did not say I would never smoke a cigaret."

City Renews Rate Fight

COAL OPERATORS FILE PROTEST IN CAPITAL

With the victory won by Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania in the long fight for fair freight rates on lake cargo coal becoming effective tomorrow when the local rate to Lake Erie is reduced from $1.66 to $1.46 a ton, the battle before the Interstate Commerce Commission was renewed today with a protest lodged at Washington against the tariffs filed by Southern railroads proposing a similar reduction in rates from Southern mines to nullify the commission's award to the Pittsburgh district.

This protest was filed on behalf of the Pittsburgh Coal Operators' lake rate committee and will be supplemented tomorrow by a similar protest from the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, both asking the commission to suspend the proposed Southern schedules pending an investigation. The protest declares that approval of the Southern tariffs would restore the unjust and unreasonable structure of rates on lake cargo coal just revised by the commission.

SUPPLY OF COAL SETS RECORD

International News Service Wire.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Despite the strike in the central bituminous fields, the stocks of soft coal in consumers' hands on July 1 were the largest for any corresponding period in history, the Bureau of Mines announced today.

Consumers' stocks totaled 62,000,000 tons. This is a decrease of but 13,000,000 tons from the stocks of April 1, indicating how little the nation has been forced to draw on its surplus coal stocks even in face of a suspension.

MARITAL REUNION ENDS IN AUTO CRASH; 1 DEAD

What started out to be a happy reunion celebration for Walter Gorman, 25, of 528 Monroe street, Buffalo, N. Y., and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Gorman, 24, who had been estranged for several months, ended tragically early this morning when the auto in which the couple were passengers struck two men, killing one and critically injuring the other.

The dead man is Martin Lydon, 36, of 1406 Nixon street, who died in Columbia Hospital shortly after 2 o'clock from a fractured skull. Patrick Cafferty, 32, of 79½ Haberman street, is in the Columbia Hospital suffering a probable fracture of the skull and a compound fracture of the left leg. The men, employes of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, were at work repairing a trolley switch at Penn avenue and Center street, Wilkinsburg, when struck.

The driver of the automobile, Raymond P. Rahn, 25, of 130 South Fairmount street, was turned over to the coroner this morning on a charge of manslaughter. Mr. and Mrs. Gorman are held as material witnesses. Wilkinsburg police, who arrested them, say all three were intoxicated when the mishap occurred.

CELEBRATE REUNION

Gorman told Wilkinsburg police his wife had left him several months ago, coming to Pittsburgh. The only postoffice address she gave was general delivery. Gorman arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and after a seven-hour vigil at the postoffice, met his wife, who, he said, was accompanied by Rahn.

He and his wife patched up their differences, Gorman said, and decided to celebrate with a "party." Rahn volunteered the use of his automobile, and the trio set out. After spending the evening drinking, they started for a drive over the William Penn highway, they told police. As they were passing through Wilkinsburg, Gorman said, he became engaged in an argument with Rahn and while they were quarreling, they struck the two workmen.

Gorman said he attempted to halt the machine after the crash but Rahn refused to stop. Both men were struggling for possession of the wheel when Policeman John Dyer gave chase in a motorcycle and fired several shots before the machine stopped.

In default of $5,000 bail Rahn was lodged in the county jail to await a coroner's inquest.

Lydon's widow and 11 children, ranging in age from 5 months to 15 years, mourn his death. At the home in Nixon street this morning the grief-stricken family told how he had left for work and of the brief notification of his death they received this morning.

"All we heard was that Martin was killed," the tearful widow said. "He was such a good husband and father to us. We certainly do miss him."

CLIFTON-BRIDGEVILLE HIGHWAY REOPENED

One county road in the South Hills district was reopened to traffic today and another in the same district was closed for repairs. The Clifton-Bridgeville road, in Upper St. Clair township, was the one reopened. It had been closed for two weeks. The highway closed is the Washington road between Clifton and Mt. Lebanon. The road will be resurfaced.

FISHER PREDICTS COOLIDGE AS NOMINEE

BILLINGS, Mont., Aug. 8—(AP)—Governor John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania believes a multiplicity of other presidential candidates probably will force the Republican party to nominate President Coolidge in 1928 in order to preserve unity within party ranks.

The Pennsylvania executive made these observations here while en route to the Black Hills of South Dakota to make a social call on Mr. Coolidge.

Governor Fisher said he did not think there was ambiguity in the president's recent statement in which he said he did not "choose" to be renominated. The carefully selected 12 words in Mr. Coolidge's statement, in the opinion of the governor, meant that Mr. Coolidge would not be a "voluntary candidate" for the nomination.

SAINT-GAUDENS MEETS 'DUCE'

Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts at Carnegie Institute, who has been abroad for the last four months assembling paintings for the twenty-sixth Carnegie international, which opens in Pittsburgh in October, was received by Mussolini yesterday, cable dispatches received at the institute today said.

Mussolini referred to the international as "a means of fostering an understanding of our art in other countries" and said "contemporary Italian art must reflect and make a permanent record of the Italy of today for future generations. This exhibition promotes international unity."

Rahn, 25, 130 South Fairmount street (center), and Walter Gorman, 26, were drunk, Wilkinsburg police say, when Rahn's car, used in party, struck two workers for Pittsburgh Railways Company early this morning as they repaired rails at Center street and Penn avenue. Police are dragging the river for the man's body.

One coat valued at $300 was taken from Max Azen, downtown Fifth avenue furrier, early today when padded bricks smashed show windows there and in East Liberty. Arrows indicate breaks.

THREE COATS LIFTED

Rosenblum, furriers, 123 South Highland avenue, were robbed of three coats, valued at $3,000, in early morning swoop equally as bold as that downtown. No arrests have been made.

Clang! King Michael's Fire Truck Runs Wild

SINAIA, Rumania, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—King Michael I, Rumania's 5-year-old sovereign, dashed down the concrete walk of the royal summer palace here a couple of days ago in his red-painted, miniature American automobile, almost bowling over Queen Marie as he went. Ahead of him raced his favorite dog, "Mumbo." They imagined themselves going to a fire.

"Mad Cap Mickey," as Queen Marie calls her romping, irrepressible grandson, was shrieking, blowing a whistle and ordering even royalty out of his path. Queen Marie said jocularly:

"Well, if he doesn't make a good king, he surely will make a first-class fireman."

She continued:

He hasn't the remotest idea what the events of the last fortnight mean. He can't understand why people make such a fuss over him. He wants to be called "Mickey" and not "Your Majesty."

Like all other children, he is intensely fond of fairy tales and stories of adventure and daring.

SENTENCE DRY VIOLATOR

A sentence of two months in the county jail was imposed today on Frank Marello of Sheraden when he entered a plea of guilty in United States District Court to a charge of violating the prohibition laws.

Third Joins Lindy's "We," She's Pretty

International News Service Wire.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 9.—The wagging of tongues which starts anew every time the Prince of Wales invites a young woman to dance or dine or ride on his yacht was but a dim echo today, compared with the gossip started by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, bashful transatlantic flying hero, in the wake of his invitation to a pretty girl to sit in the cockpit of the Spirit of St. Louis.

The honored guest, who sat in the control seat of the famous monoplane was Miss Martha Helen Croninger, 17, said to be the only woman aviator in Cincinnati. She isn't really a full-fledged pilot yet, but is a student aviator, and already has done some solo piloting. She was introduced to Lindbergh at Lunken Airport just prior to his take-off for Louisville, Ky., yesterday, and Lindy surprised even his closets associates when he invited her to inspect the control of his ship from the pilot's place.

Lindbergh's take-off was slightly delayed when it was discovered that a souvenir hunter had whittled a four-inch square section from the stabilizer of the Spirit of St. Louis, but repairs were made quickly.

Only 20 Americans Have A-1 Molars, Dentists Told

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—In all America there are only 20 sets of perfect natural teeth, Ernest E. Dalton, of this city, declared in an address today before the National Dental Technicians.

ARKANSAS RIVER FLOOD LOOMS

FORT SMITH, Ark., Aug. 9.—General rains throughout the Arkansas River valley will send the stream to flood stage, 22 feet, in the opinion of weather bureau officials here today.

The Arkansas River reached a stage of slightly more than 21 feet but was receding. Reports said that Oklahoma tributaries, however, were rapidly rising.

GOOD-WILL MEXICAN HOP REFUSED BY KELLOGG

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 8—(AP)—Permission for a good-will flight from Houston to Mexico was refused by Secretary Kellogg who notified the sponsors of the plan that, "Having in mind the larger interests of the government, it is not possible to grant your request." The flight which was to have started tomorrow, was called off on receipt of Mr. Kellogg's message by the Houston chamber of commerce, who sponsored it. The request was considered with every disposition to grant it, Mr. Kellogg's message said, "if this could be done without jeopardizing other matters affecting very vitally the policy of this government and enforcement of our arms embargo."

COMMISSION PROHIBITS "CANNED MUSIC" ON RADIO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8—Broadcasting stations will be unable to palm off "canned music" phonograph records on the unsuspecting radio public except when announcement is made to that effect "with the announcement of each and every number," the Federal Radio Commission has decided. Discovery that several stations were broadcasting phonograph music under the guise of orchestra or band concerts caused the commission to make the decision.

AX VICTIM DIES ACCUSING 2 ATTACKERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—A 74-year-old man died in court yesterday while testifying against two men he had charged with striking him on the head with an ax and beating him. The witness was Dennis Clifford, who yesterday attended the funeral of his wife, who died as the result of an automobile accident July 31 last. The men he accused of attacking him are Edward Dunn, 24, and John Clark, 22.

The trouble, he said, began when his son-in-law, Walter McCormack, attacked Mrs. Clifford, who was aged 45. Mrs. Clifford had her son-in-law arrested last July 19, charging he had knocked her down and kicked her in the face. Mrs. Clifford told police McCormack had become infuriated when she refused to accept the attentions of two strange men whom he had brought to her home.

At this point in his story, Clifford, who had slumped lower and lower in the witness stand, collapsed and fell to the floor. He died a few moments later.

Officials announced an autopsy would be held to determine whether Clifford's death was a result of the alleged attack on him.

OHIO VICTIM'S IDENTITY TRACED TO HOMEWOOD

COSHOCTON, O., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The badly decomposed body of a man believed to be Max Wagner, 35, of Homewood, Pittsburgh, was found in a field near here. The victim's clothing, two gold teeth and other marks of identification tally with the description of Wagner, who disappeared from a camp July 13. An apparently demented man, answering Wagner's description, and who thought he was in East Liberty, Pittsburgh, was seen by two men here July 14. He asked them the way to Homewood.

FORMER PASTOR HERE DIES IN HARRISBURG

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Rev. Leroy F. Baker, 79, senior priest of the diocese of Harrisburg, Episcopal Church, died at his home here yesterday after serving more than half a century in the ministry.

After serving as missionary at Great Bend and New Milford, he was called to the rectorship of St. Paul's Church, Pittsburgh. He organized Trinity Church, Steelton, and St. Andrew's Church in this city. In 1905 he was appointed general missionary of the diocese of Harrisburg, in which capacity he served twelve years.

—New Fall Models
—Year-Around Weights

$55.00

THIS is an event that should interest every woman, miss or junior-miss who is going to need a coat for travel, campus wear or general service. The coats are in new models and fabrics, they are of staple, all-seasons type, and their purchase has been done on such an extensive scale that the price is a rare, low one, indeed.

These are coats for immediate wear. Their very versatility makes them an all-purpose garment that conforms to the requirements not only of the present season, but also to late fall and winter wear. They are the type, aside from general wear purposes, that one may use in many cases to save a dressy or fur coat. No coat wardrobe is well rounded out without one.

Fabrics are superior American and foreign weaves. The excellent tailoring shows in the fit of shoulders, the trimness of sleeves, and small but important finishing details. In many instances the fur trimmings, alone, are worth an amount almost equalling the sale price of the coats.

Fur Trimmings: squirrel, caracul, beaver, nutria, American opossum, Jap fox, badger, kit fox, raccoon, and mountain goat. In Johnny, tuxedo, plain and mushroom collars.

Colors: light and dark tans, wood brown, gray, green, black-and-white, red-and-white and others effectively used in stripes, block checks, di[illegible] checks, shadow plaids, pin checks and other patterns.

Models—
Women's Misses' Junior-Misses'

The collection presents sizes from junior-misses' 13 to women's size 52½.

Directly above is pictured a woman's coat of soft, chenille-surfaced fleece in invisible check of tan-and-brown, with generous beaver collar.

At right, a junior-miss' coat of tweed in brown-and-tan, with collar of brown-toned Jap fox.

Boys Hurry to Enroll In Aircraft Contest

Fifty young men from 14 to 20 years today are enrolled in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Bureau of Recreation model aircraft contest.

Hundreds more, it was reported along the line, are preparing their planes, making them according to the instructions in the articles by Paul E. Garber, aeronautical expert of the Smithsonian Institution.

And meanwhile, there are many in addition that are preparing to send in their entries, for August 15 has been set as the date for the closing of entrance in the contest, which, automatically, will make the plane-builders members of the National Aircraft Model contest.

Medals for the first and second winners in the 14 district championships, gold for the first and silver for the second to place, have been ordered. The champion of the city will get an engraved trophy. And there's only until August 22 or 23 to complete the planes, for the district championships will be settled, according to W. C. Batchelor, superintendent of the Bureau of Recreation, August 24. Three of these districts will embrace the out-of-the-city entrants, while the other 11 districts will include the various Pittsburgh district boys.

Entry blanks, which are to be found alongside the illustrated articles in the Fiction Section of this issue, may be sent to the Aircraft Editor, Sun-Telegraph, or given to the nearest playground director. The recreation department has found it necessary to drop the playground contests, due to their early closing dates.

The finals, when the planes will be tested for the last time and the city championship decided, are slated for Schenley Oval, Schenley Park, August 30. Those planes that are judged sufficiently effective and available in the district championships will be named to enter the finals.

See Fiction Section for article "How to Build a Plane."

KILLED BY HIS OWN TRAP

BUENA VISTA, Ga., Aug. 8.—Shot in a trap he had set for burglars in his store, J. T. McHan, a merchant, died from the wound. McHan had arranged a shotgun, with the muzzle pointing to the front door and a wire fastened to the door. Going to the store later he forgot the trap and was mortally wounded when he opened the door.

How to Reduce High Blood Pressure

There is only one way to reduce high blood pressure and that is by correcting the condition which has caused it. You must rid your system of the deadly body poisons that are being absorbed into the blood stream, affecting every vital organ and threatening apoplexy.

You can do it easily and quickly with Lithuric Salts, a pleasant sparkling drink composed of natural mineral salts and the fruit acids of lemons and grapes. Body poisons are removed through flushing of the intestines, the liver is stimulated and the kidneys assisted to do their body purifying work. If you get a package of Lithuric Salts at any May Drug Co. Store, or of any other good druggist today and start taking it tomorrow morning, you'll soon be amazed at the remarkable improvement in your condition.—Advertisement.

Is this where your motor oil is going?

EVAPORATION is the biggest motor oil thief in the world. It is the evaporation of low-heat-resisting oils which, more than anything else, makes it necessary to keep replenishing your crankcase supply.

Save yourself this expense. Use the remarkable new Atlantic Motor Oil—"Heavy" for summer—and the waste will stop. The absence of oily deposits around the crankcase vent will tell you so.

The new Atlantic "Heavy" is an Atlantic discovery. It is the highest heat-resisting motor oil you can buy.

Get a filling today—and note the greatly increased oil-mileage. All Atlantic dealers and service stations have it—in bulk, or in one-gallon, five-gallon and one-quart cans.

Evaporation tests prove the remarkable quality of this oil

At 760° Fahrenheit (more than three and one-half times the temperature of boiling water) Atlantic "Heavy," under repeated tests, showed an evaporation loss of less than 1%.

Twelve other representative "heavy" oils, under identically the same tests, showed evaporation losses ranging up to 42%.

SCREEN ❖ NEWS and REVIEWS ❖ STAGE

No Amateur Work -:- She's Popular Here -:- Bears Boy's Name

MARCELINE DAY never got that wave in her hair by "putting it up in kids" over night. No, sir, that's a professional job. While we are speaking of Marceline we may as well state that her current picture is "Captain Salvation," in which she supports Lars Hanson.

ANNE FORREST could be a permanent resident of Pittsburgh if popularity with audiences who have witnessed her stock work here means anything. Anyway she has been here long enough to seem like home folks.

BILLIE GIRL SHE IS, not "Billie Boy" who proclaimed his girl's merit as a cherry pie maker. This Billie is none other than Billie Dove, who, with Lloyd Hughes, is making a screen appearance in "The Stolen Bride." Miss Billie is one of the screen's youngest and prettiest "veterans."

New Chaney Film, "The Ordeal," With Marceline Day Opposite, Is Set for Early Production

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—The box office year for more and more of Lon Chaney and Louis B. Mayer is not the type who is willing to disappoint Mr. Chaney's public. Therefore within the next few days the man who has appeared in more weird roles than any actor in captivity will begin work on "The Ordeal," a Hunt Stromberg supervised production with many Chaney angles.

Advance whispers concerning "The Ordeal" give it a glowing reputation as entertainment. John Robertson, who is one of the most thoroughly reliable directors on the M. G. M. or any other lot, will wield the megaphone, and Josephine Lovett, or Mrs. Robertson, has written the scenario.

The little Day girl—Marceline—now regarded as one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's best bets in the leading woman line, will play opposite the versatile Mr. Chaney. This is Miss Day's second role in a Chaney picture. Likewise the second time she has appeared under the direction of John Robertson.

Universal feels another Irish-Jewish comedy coming on. I had hoped these tales intermingling the Ginsbergs and the O'Reillys would one day cease. I am hopeful that way sometimes but alas and alack there isn't a chance while the dear public pays its nickels and dimes to see all the varied editions of "Abie's Irish Rose."

Universal, however, is deviating from the usual path by permitting the Irish and Jewish characters to travel abroad in a comedy to be christened "The Cohans and Kellys in Paris." George Sidney represents Cohan and Charlie Murray, that portrayer of innumerable Irish comedy characters, will in all likelihood see that the Kellys are properly portrayed.

William Beaudine has been signed to direct. So far no women are so much as mentioned—but never fear, they will be soon.

COMEDY IN PITT IS LIKED

Most persons have envied the sort of man who appears to thrive and prosper on bluff and have wondered how he manages it so successfully. If the truth were known he probably doesn't. If he isn't able to do it on the stage he certainly is profiting in nothing of material advantage in real life. And he doesn't prove to be a winner on the stage. At least that was the case in the Pitt last night, when "If I Was Rich" was presented by the George Sharp Production Stock Company. The bold front and pretense seemed to work at first but did not gain anything but discomfiture in the end.

"If I Was Rich," a comedy, by William Anthony McGuire, begins with a rather farcical first act that is plenty of fun but it takes a rather melodramatic turn about the middle of the second act and follows that course to the finale. James Sterling is a shipping clerk at $40 per week, married to a little girl who wants all the pretties he and she together are unable to pay for with their combined salaries. The landlord wants his money and Jimmy's friend, Billie, a bluffer of the first water, starts things going to save Jimmy from being dispossessed. Jimmy is made the son of a rich man and the landlord invites him to his summer home instead of putting him out as he had intended.

That is just the beginning. The landlord is a bluffer, too, trying to stave off bankruptcy. The party in his home is interrupted by a theft, the appearance of a rough talking police lieutenant and the accusation that one of the guests is a rum-runner and another a home-wrecker. There is a general showing up in which both bluffers are revealed in their true light. Jimmy decides that he has had enough of bluff, but he has learned a lesson that he profits by anyway. His boss had fired him and Jimmy told him he would not come back without a raise in salary. "Be on time in the morning," the boss told him. So much for bluff.

The company was especially well cast in "If I Was Rich" and all did good work. Herbert Clark was a pleasing Jimmy and Anne Forrest added to her popularity as Mrs. Sterling. Edwin Vail was commendable in a character portrayal that was well drawn as Jimmy's boss. Escamillo Fernandez, a new member of the company, was the rough talking officer. He is a capable actor. Fred Sullivan, John W. Moore and Mabel Kroman also played their parts well.

Novel by Priest Sold For Reproduction As Movie

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—The name Ward Russell probably doesn't mean very much to those who read that he has sold his novel, "The Worm Turns," to Universal. Ward Russell is just a nom de plume of a well known New York priest who asks that his identity be kept a secret. Mr. Russell wrote this college tale and while on a vacation in Hollywood sold it to Universal Pictures. He has other ideas which he is eager to have brought to the screen.

Hari Singh's Coronation Is "Home Movie" Release

The coronation of Sir Hari Singh, the Maharajah of Kashmir, who wore jewelry worth $20,000,000 for the occasion and rode a gigantic elephant bearing a throne of solid gold is probably the most outstanding of the new feature pictures yet shown in "home movies." It has been released recently.

Owners of amateur motion picture cameras and projectors are estimated by the Amateur Cinema League now to number 70,000. The coronation film is one of the Eastman Kodak Company's "Cinegraphs," four-minute feature films of drama, comedy, cartoons, travel, adventure and current history, which are issued monthly on amateur standard film for home projecting machines in the same way that records are issued for talking machines. Such stars as John Barrymore, Charlie Chaplin, Jackie Coogan and Bobby Jones, the golf champion, and such events as Lindbergh's flight and return to America have been shown in previous releases.

Fighting Romeo Needed For Romance of Prize Ring

Is there a young man in Hollywood who can appear to romantic advantage in heart throbbing love scenes, and also hold his own in the prize fight ring?

That is the kind of a fellow DeMille studio is looking for. William K. Howard, completing the cast for his next directorial job for DeMille, "The Main Event," in which Vera Reynolds portrays the stellar role, is casting his eye over the male youth of the cinema capital in the endeavor to find an actor to play the leading role opposite Miss Reynolds.

Written for the screen by Rochus Gliese, former writer and director of UFA, the story is taken from the original by Paul Allison and involves the careers of a cafe dancer and a contender for the prize fight championship. Howard is earnestly looking for a leading man to portray the role of the fighter, and he must be able to be as ardent a lover as a wielder of boxing gloves.

HUNGARIAN PLAYWRIGHT AUTHOR OF MENJOU PLOT

Adolphe Menjou's next starring picture will be "The Musician." It will go into production soon after completion of Menjou's current vehicle, "A Gentleman of Paris." Ernest Vajda, Hungarian playwright, is author of the new scenario.

DOOLEY AND DOVE IN DAVIS

That rather prominent scion of the Dooley clan whose christian name is Johnny and who has achieved a reputation as a "nut" comedian was the headliner among the stage acts of the program of Keith vaudeville and screen attractions which were presented at the Davis yesterday. The Dooley is a "cracked" "nut" who deals in "cracks" the sophisticated call "wise" probably because they are otherwise. As the press agent has it, he is the chap who put the "trick" in eccentric—and that's some trick, if one is obsessed with old-fashioned ideas about spelling. Anyway, Johnny was there with his eccentricities of speech, manner, dances and dress, and laughs were frequent during his time on the stage.

The Transfield Sisters and their Voyagers took a cruise through musicland. The sisters are harmony singers and their act included selections on the saxophone, xylophone, mandolin and banjo, with some stepping here and there.

Dart's Troubadours, a seven-piece orchestra, featured Eugenie La Blanc, singer and clog dancer.

Niblo, Spencer and Company presented a travesty, "A Thousand Miles from Nowhere," poking fun at the idea that the sea is something to brag about.

Kharum, billed as the Persian pianist, played the piano in a way that indicated he made no mistake in passing up the national Persian occupation of rug-making in favor of a musical career.

Other variety offerings included Dalton and Craig in "Aladdin's Lamp," elaborately staged, and the Blum Trio, gymnasts.

"The Stolen Bride" was the principal screen presentation. It featured Billie Dove and Lloyd Hughes and dramatized the troubles of a girl and her fiance after her father had announced her betrothal to another. The films also included comedy and news pictures.

FAVOR M'KEESPORT PARK

A bond issue of $175,000 for the purchase of Five Fields, 165 acres on the outskirts of McKeesport, passed first and second readings before the Tube City council yesterday afternoon. The issue will be up for final reading at the next meeting of council. The plot is intended for a public park.

Aldine's Stage Bill Includes Musical Novelties

Musical novelties and comedy were presented on the stage of Loew's Aldine last night by Al Lentz and his group of tuneful assistants. Syncopation and originality were intermixed in this, the featured offering in the stage program. Rule Brothers and Tenny sang a number of songs of their own composition and others. An overture, "Song Creations," with Jane Gibson, vocal soloist, assisting, was played by the Aldine orchestra, Gilbert C. Pray directing. On the screen Lars Hanson, Swedish actor, appeared in the leading role in "Captain Salvation," the photoplay feature. It is a story of the sea based on Frederick William Wallace's novel. Marceline Day played opposite Hanson and Pauline Starke had a siren role. Ernest Torrence was a sea captain. A Felix cartoon comedy, "Topics of the Day," and a news film also were presented.

"OLD IRONSIDES" BOOKED FOR NIXON

James Cruze's photoplay production, "Old Ironsides," from the story by Laurence Stallings, will open in the Nixon next Monday evening. "Old Ironsides" is described as the most stupendous undertaking ever planned by Paramount. The production is a romantic sea epic built about the history of the old frigate Constitution, now being preserved to posterity through the medium of pennies contributed by children all over the country.

Half a hundred ships take part in the battle scenes between the American Navy and the Tripoli pirates who gave the old Constitution her baptism of glory. Some of the principals in the cast are Wallace Beery, Esther Ralston, George Bancroft and Charles Farrell.

COPS' ASSOCIATION WITH WOMEN CAUSES TROUBLE

Decision was reserved by Magistrate E. M. Hough of North Side Police Court today in the case of Patrolmen David Moore, 28, of 75 Clifton Park, and A. F. McCloskey, 30, of 504 West Jefferson street, arrested last night while in uniform on order of Inspector Charles Faulkner, who charges the accused officers of associating with street women. Both were suspended pending hearings before the police trial board.

DANCE FEATURED IN HARRIS

Helen Higgins, with Rod Kirby, Bordon Box and Horace Bentley appeared in the Harris yesterday as a principal attraction in a dance offering which was called "Rainbeaux." Miss Higgins, in "The Nautch Dance," was featured in the act. Quinn, Binder and Roy, in their part of the program, presented comedy chatter and dancing that made the offering prominent. The featured screen presentation was "Rich But Honest," with Nancy Nash and Clifford Holland heading the cast in a story of young love. Jim and Flo Bogard made the best of the time allotted to them with an act of songs, dances and amusing dialogue. Sam K. Nainoa played a Hawaiian steel guitar and sang a group of songs. Gardner's Champions included Harry, a ball playing dog. Black and Small, in a stage novelty, screen comedy and other presentations made up the remainder of the bill.

PLAYERS IN "MY SON" FROM ORIGINAL CAST

Next week's offering of the George Sharp Production Stock Company in the Pitt will be Martha Stanley's comedy-drama, "My Son." For this production Manager Sharp has engaged Escamillo Fernandez, who, together with Herbert Clark, appeared in the original New York production.

William Faversham is to be the headliner in the Keith-Albee vaudeville bill in the Davis next week. He and his company will play "The Sponger," by Edwin Burke.

"Stepping Along," seven youngsters in a gorgeously costumed skit, will topline the bill in the Harris next week. Each kiddie is a musician, singer or dancer.

Among the vaudeville attractions in the Sheridan Square the last half of this week will be Capman Boys and Fashionettes in "Dance and Syncopation."

Broadway Life Painted In Sheridan Square Film Drama

"Slaves of Beauty" is the photoplay feature in the Sheridan Square the first three days of this week. The story of the drama is that of a woman who thought she was too young for her husband. Broadway's gay life is the background for the action of the plot, which is based on a story by Nina Wilcox Putnam. The cast includes Holmes Herbert and Olive Tell. J. G. Blystone directed the production. In addition to the photoplay feature vaudeville acts and short screen entertainment is on the bill. Tom Mix will be seen on the screen the last three days of the week in "The Broncho Twister."

"MUSICOMANIA" IS NEW SCREENLAND DISEASE

Ninety per cent of directors and actors in the motion picture business are susceptible to hypno-musicomania, according to Luther Reed, director. Music, according to Reed, has a hypnotic influence on humans making bad acting seem good and good acting better. In order to judge calmly the acting of the players on his set, he has ordered all music stopped during scenes. However, Mr. Reed believes in music between scenes as he claims it entertains, soothes and stimulates the players, all according to the type of music played.

CANSINOS AT TOP IN GRAND

Antonio and Catherine Cansino, in the Grand yesterday, presented the most pretentious dancing act that has yet appeared on the stage of this theater. They were assisted in their pleasing offering by the Porto Rico String Orchestra. Another stage feature was Edna Thomas, as "The Lady from Louisiana," who sang a number of Negro spirituals and plantation melodies. The screen feature was the photoplay version of "Beau Geste," running for a second week. It is an adaptation of the novel of the same title by Maj. Percival Christopher C. Wren, dealing with romance and adventure in the French Foreign Legion. Ronald Colman is seen as "Beau" and Alice Joyce has one of the leading feminine parts. In the cast also are Noah Beery, Mary Brian, Neil Hamilton and Ralph Forbes. Completing the screen program are a "Krazy Kat" comedy, Fox News and "Topics of the Day." Music by the Grand Orchestra, directed by David Broudy, also is featured.

AGED MAN DROPS DEAD

BUTLER, Aug. 9.—While driving a cow from pasture, William Schroth, 65, a retired harness-maker of Saxonburg, dropped dead last night. The body was found by Frank Walters, a neighbor.

Love Drama With Sea Background in Cameraphone

"Captain Salvation," a picturization of the novel by Frederick William Wallace, is the principal attraction in the Cameraphone this week. The picture unfolds a love in the volcano of human emotions, with characters that represent the brutal, the fearless, the godless—the men who sailed the old clipper ships and looked death and worse in the face. The cast includes Lars Hanson, Pauline Starke, Marceline Day, Ernest Torrence, George Fawcett, Flora Finch, Sam de Grasse and Eugenie Forde. A short comedy, news pictures and music are on the bill.

Three Stars of Today In Re-Issue of Photoplay

"The Miracle Man," a picture that won wide acclaim when it was first shown eight years ago, is having a revival presentation in the Cameo this week. Lon Chaney, Thomas Meighan and Betty Compson are among the featured players. An added attraction on the program is the showing of news pictures of Col. Lindbergh's visit here. A short comedy feature, International News and special music will complet the bill.

Canadian Town Fails To Recognize Wales

SCHREIBER, Ontario, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—There is one spot in the Dominion of Canada where the Prince of Wales may pass unknown.

The royal train which is bearing westward the heir to the British throne, with Prince George and Stanley Baldwin, premier of Great Britain, stopped five minutes at White River. Flags flew overhead and a crowd had gathered at the station, for the royal party had been expected.

The Prince of Wales and Premier Baldwin hurried down the platform, shaking hands and extending greetings. There were answering smiles in some cases and puzzled looks in others—but there was not a cheer. The people did not recognize in the Prince of Wales and Mr. Baldwin the ones for whom they had been waiting.

Perhaps it was the clothes the visitors wore which caused the confusion. Both the prince and the premier were wearing light flannel suits, and White River was looking for something more regal. Possibly the informality of the manner of the prince and the premier had something to do with it.

Moreover, Mr. Baldwin's staff was giving an energetic display of medicine ball down the platform. White River had never heard that medicine ball and royalty went together.

So the prince and his party steamed on their way, unrecognized by the general public of White River.

Bread, Water Diet for Wife Deserters In Nebraska

FREMONT, Neb., Aug. 9.—Bread and water will be the compulsory diet for convicted wife deserters in Dodge county hereafter, Judge Waldo Wintersteen has decided.

Judge Wintersteen got some ideas on this form of punishment recently when he conferred at Hartington, Neb., with Judge Wilbur, who attracted attention a year ago by imposing "bread and water sentences" upon liquor law violators.

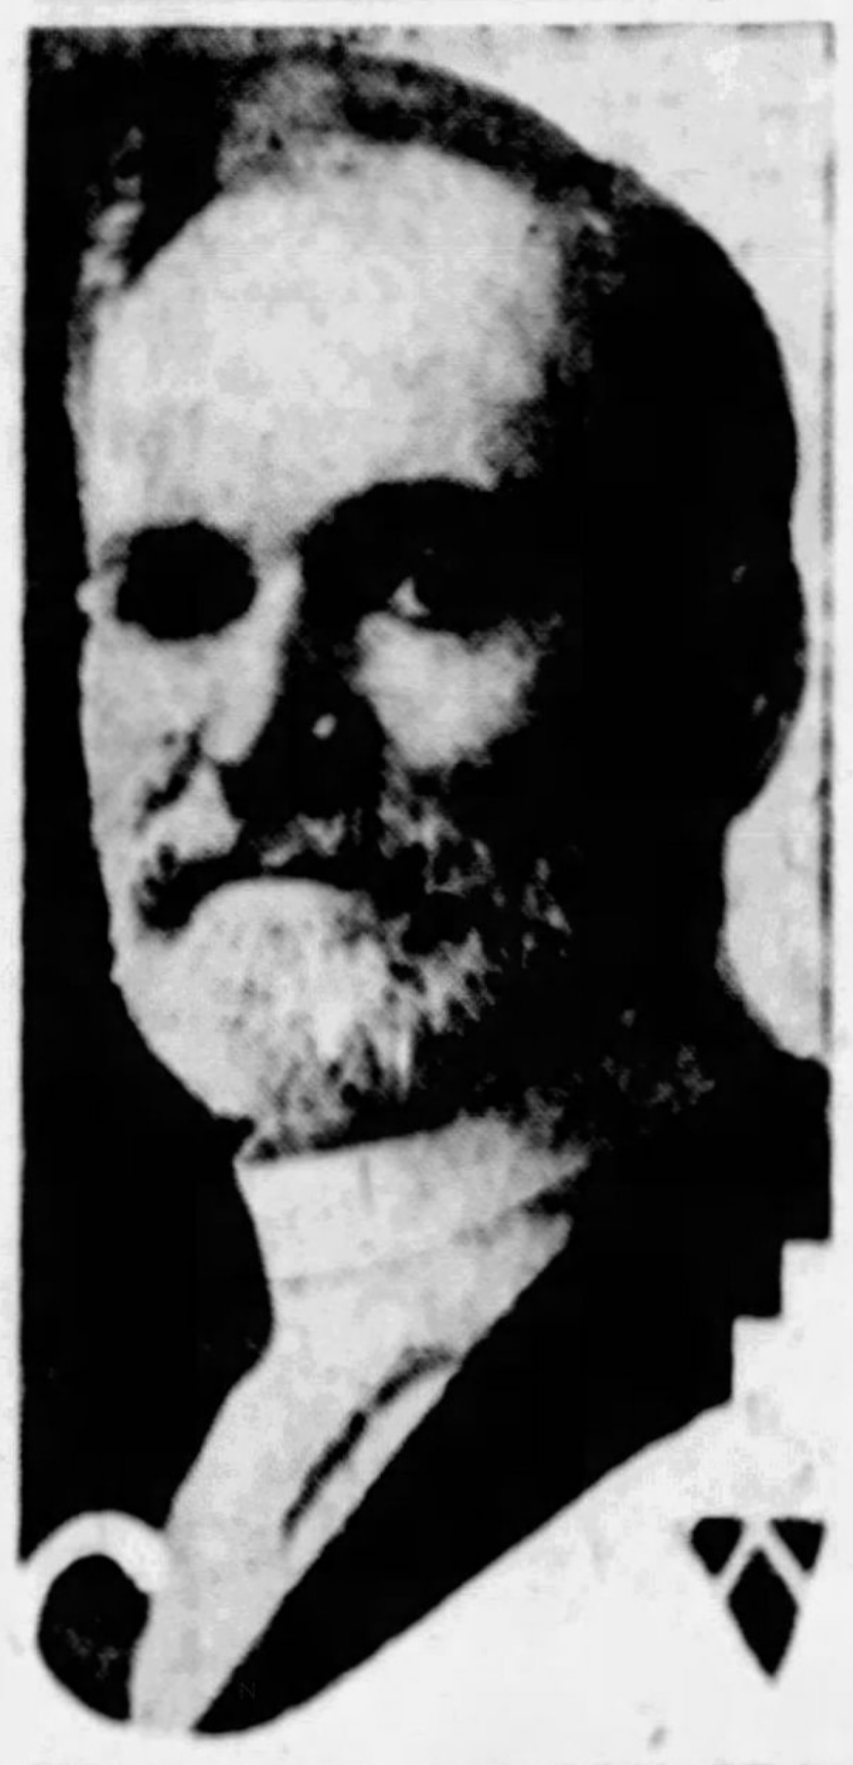
Organizer Dies



THE REV. WHITESIDE

The Rev. Edward D. Whiteside, who organized the Christian and Missionary Alliance here in 1894 and who founded eight tabernacles in this district, died yesterday in his home, 4020 Franklin road.

MISSIONARY ALLIANCE HEAD DIES

The Rev. Edward D. Whiteside, 79, pastor and superintendent of the Christian and Missionary Alliance in the Pittsburgh district since its organization here in 1894, died yesterday in his home at 4020 Franklin road, North Side.

He was born in St. Johns, N. B., and entered the ministry in 1877 in the Methodist denomination. About 1887 he came to Pittsburgh and was engaged for a short time in Sunday school work, and for five years was superintendent of a gospel mission at Second avenue and Grant street.

In 1894 Dr. A. B. Simpson, founder and president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, organized a Pittsburgh branch and the Rev. Whiteside was appointed pastor and superintendent, where he remained until his death.

The tabernacle was started at 940 Penn avenue and later at 947 Penn avenue. After 12 years the place of meeting was moved to 216 Stockton avenue, North Side, and in 1911 the present church at 509 Arch street, North Side, was erected.

The Rev. Whiteside was instrumental in organizing tabernacles in East Liberty, McKeesport, McKees Rocks, Sheridan, Etna, Nadine, McDonald and Verona.

The Rev. Whiteside was married to Annie Hagerty in 1878. She died five years ago. He leaves two nieces.

The body of the minister will be on view in the Gospel Tabernacle in Arch street, Thursday, from 10 o'clock until 2 o'clock. Funeral services will be held in North Side Carnegie Music Hall. Burial will be in Highwood Cemetery.

She was a member of the First Unitarian Church and was an active church worker until she became ill several years ago.

Addison A. Willison.

Addison A. Willison, 64, died yesterday in his home, 191 Morewood avenue. Mr. Willison was born in Flintstone, Md. Before coming to Pittsburgh 30 years ago, he lived in Wheeling and Cumberland. He was a member of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church and of the Men's Bible class of that congregation. He leaves one son, J. Russell Willison of Pittsburgh; three brothers, Charles C., John and M. H. Willison, and one sister, Mrs. Ophelia Robinette, all of Cumberland, and one grandson.

Racial factors enter into the dispute, as thousands of Italians are among the strikers. Eighty-five armed detectives watched the crowd as the premier spoke.

AIMEE TO WRITE STORY OF LIFE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, Angelus evangelist, today undertook a new role—that of an author—with the announcement she would write the story of her life.

The volume, expected to reach about 50,000 words, will include the story of kidnaping and escape which the evangelist brought back to Los Angeles from Douglas, Ariz., a year ago, accounting for her disappearance after swimming in the surf at a local beach a month before. It also will include descriptions of "wicked spots" in the cities of Chicago and New York, and the evangelist's "conquests over Satan" in these cities.

BIG C. & O. PROFIT IN MERGER OPPONENTS SAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad will make an immediate profit of more than $15,000,000 if it is allowed to carry out the terms of the new Van Sweringen merger, the railroad's attorneys told the Interstate Commerce Commission. In a brief filed with the commission it was pointed out that the Van Sweringen Brothers have sacrificed a possible profit of that amount in agreeing to sell their stock holdings in the Erie and Pere Marquette to the Chesapeake and Ohio. If the Chesapeake and Ohio is not allowed to take over the Erie and Pere Marquette as contemplated, "it will be hemmed about by its competitors, its business narrowed and its future limited," the brief declared.

CALLING CARD SAVES DIPLOMAT POLICE FINE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—You can't arrest a foreign diplomat for picnicking on your front lawn, it was held today. Such was the ruling when Christian Diamantopoulos, first secretary of the Greek legation, and party, comprising an attorney and two comely girls, staged a lawn party on the estate of Roland Childs. Childs called a policeman, who took Diamantopoulos before a magistrate.

He said he thought the place was a club house.

"Yeah, $12 fine as your initiation fee," said the magistrate. The secretary produced his diplomatic card. The case was dismissed.

WATER ONLY FOR FIRE LADDIES

GREENSBURG, Aug. 9.—There will be no letup in prohibition enforcement during the Western Pennsylvania firemen's convention and old home week, District Attorney John R. Keister has warned visitors.

Taking cognizance of reports that illicit refreshments would be available in wholesale quantity during the celebrations here this week, the District Attorney issued a formal statement to this effect.

The firemen's convention entered its second day today. Memorial services were being held this afternoon and the election of officers and choice of the next convention city is scheduled for Wednesday. The first performance of Greensburg's pageant in connection with old home week will take place tonight.

Smile Often

Show clear white teeth, gums like coral now

RESTORING dull, off-color teeth to polished whiteness quickly is a recent dental achievement.

It's been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully clear off. That's why brushing fails you.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a sort of slippery coating. Beneath it are the white teeth you envy.

It keeps your smile unattractive because it absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea because it breeds bacteria.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, a scientific combatant has been found. Leading dentists widely urge it. All druggists have it. Works wonders on dingy teeth. 10-day test sent free.

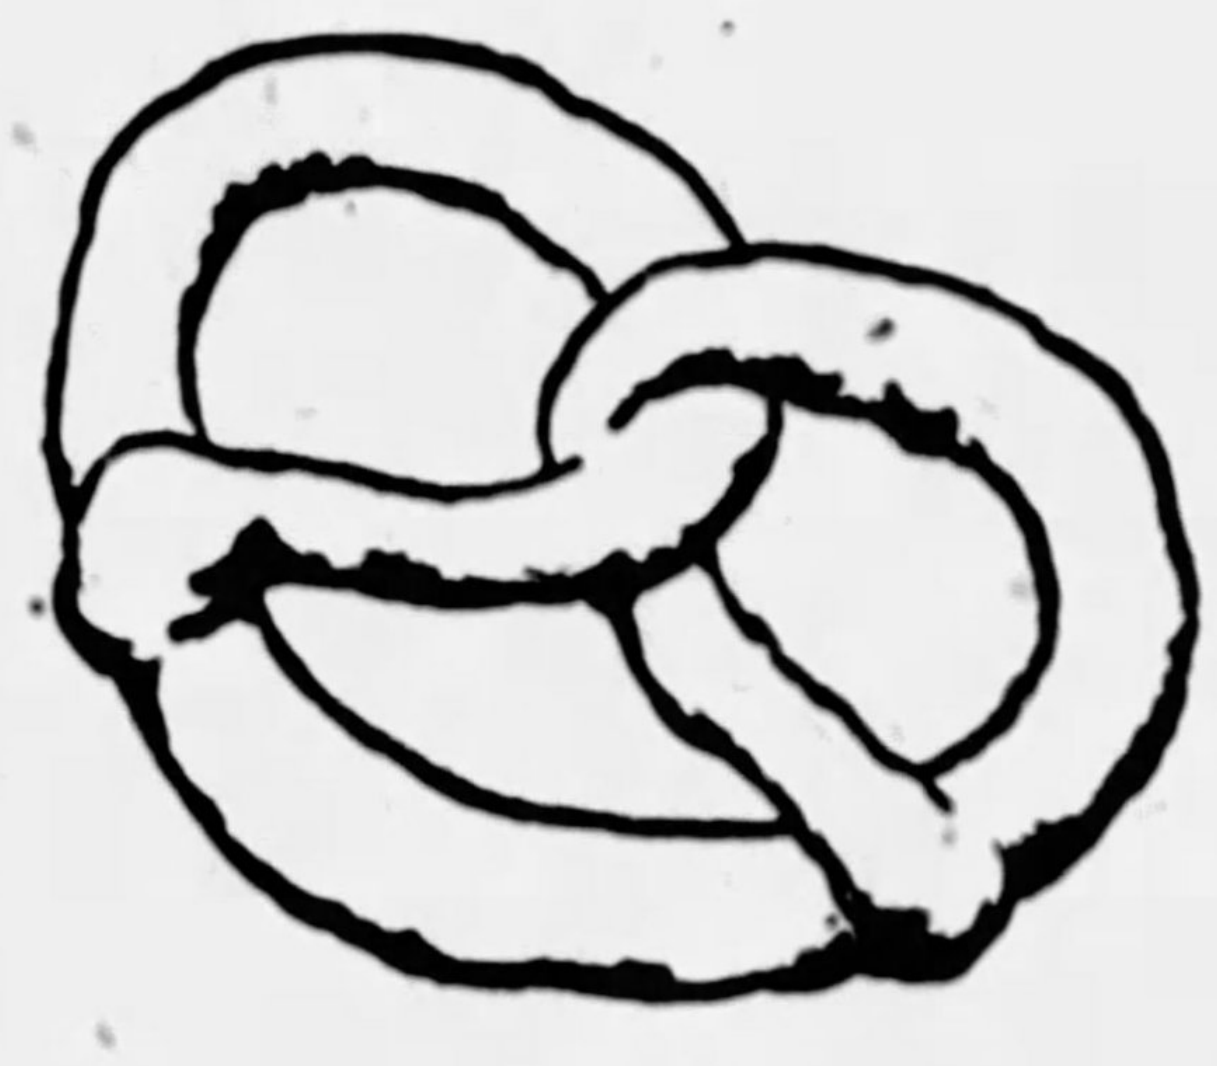
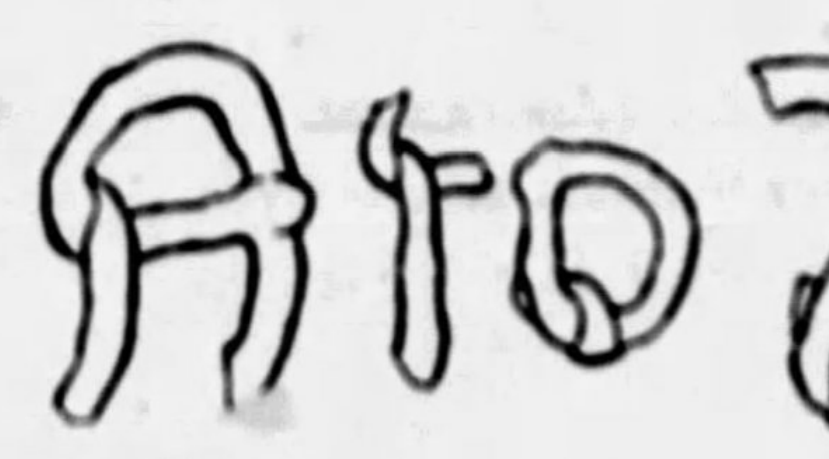
Bite yourself an Alphabet



Have you had a pretzeleering party?

Friends come in. Bridge wears out. The radio is good for nothing except a lecture on "The Private Life of an Egg Plant." That is the time of all times for pretzels to come to the aid of your party. Have Jeeves bring out a platterful of O-So-Guds and start your guests to pretzeleering for prizes. They can bite anything from



New, novel and nice—but noisy. For folks do have fun, as well as food, with O-So-Guds.

These pretzels, baked the Uneeda Bakers way, are crispy, and salty, and crunchy. They're good biting and good eating.

Serve plenty at parties. Be sure there's a bowlful alongside the ice cold pitcher of lemonade or what have you. Take plenty on picnics. At home, serve them with soup, salad, cheese, dessert.

O-So-Gud Pretzels are so easy to digest that doctors say they are very good for children.

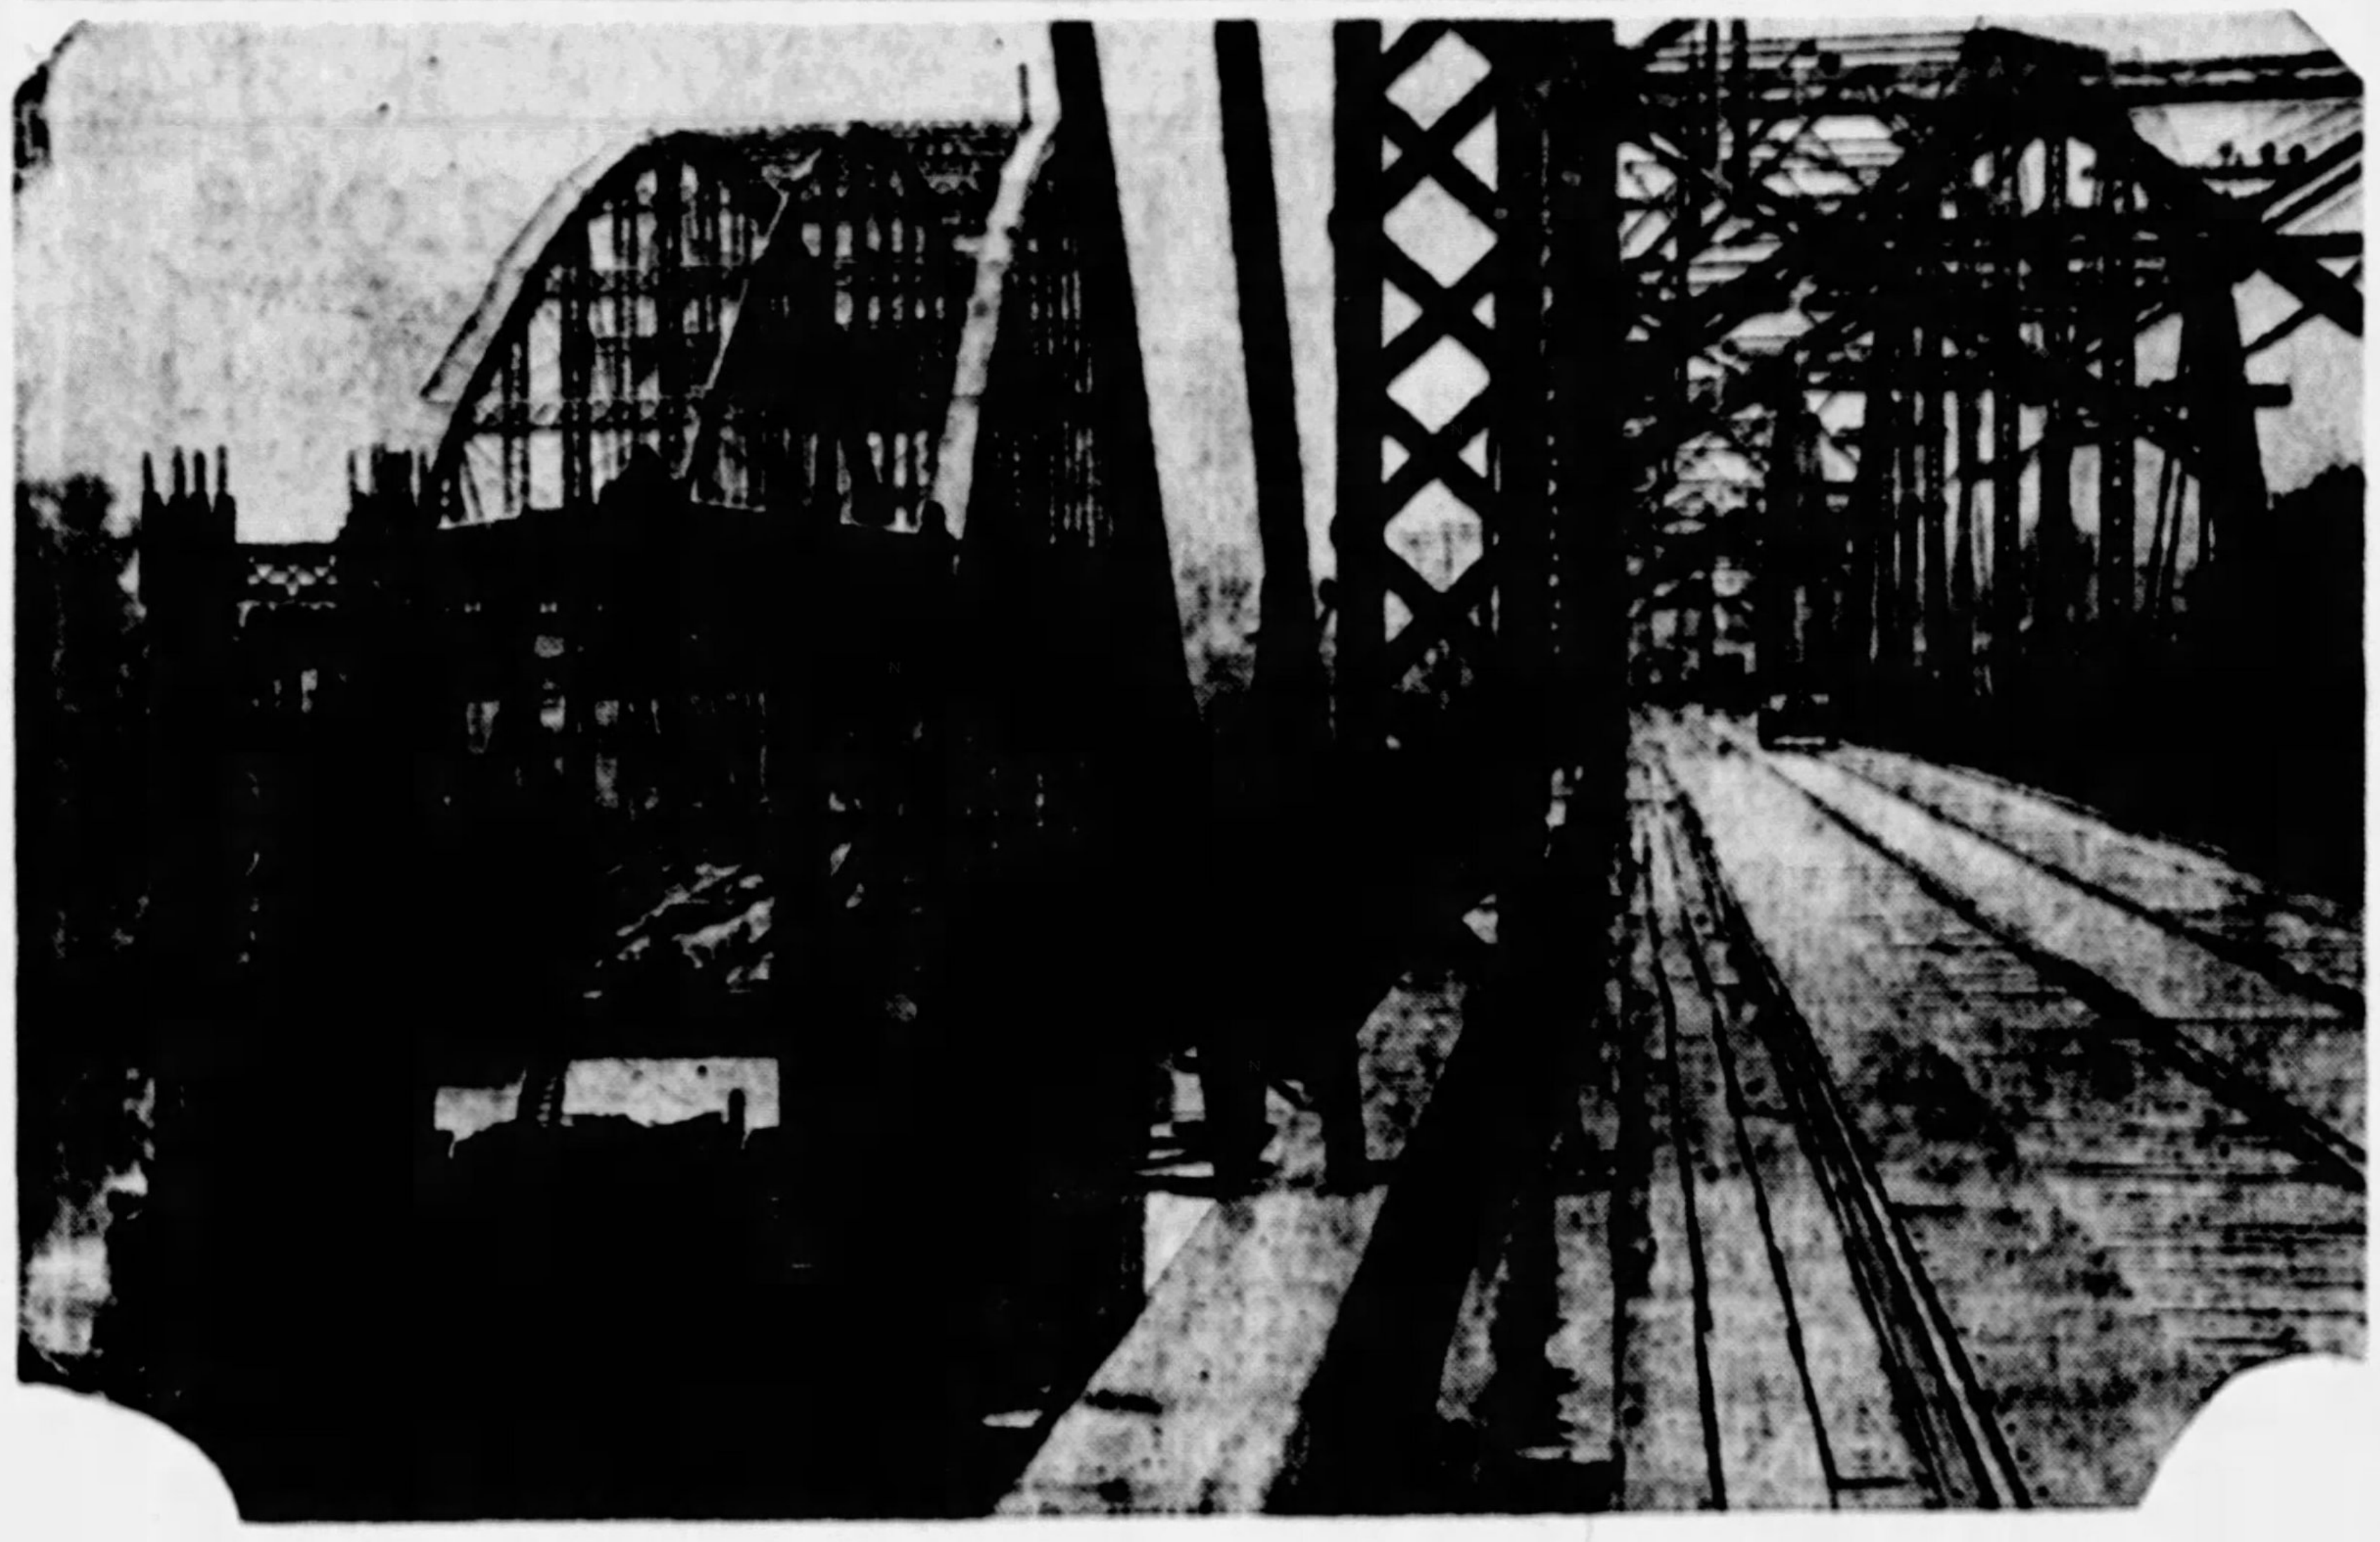
SIXTH STREET BRIDGE GOES DOWN THE RIVER



A BRIDGE AND A HALF

Former Sixth street bridge is speedily completing its span of Ohio river at Coraopolis and Neville Island to replace old, iron affair. Picture shows the one span already moved down the river 12 miles and the bridge which will be dismantled. The second span is expected at its new quarters in a few weeks, which will complete what engineers declare an unparalleled feat—moving 1,600 tons of bridge 12 miles through water.

Another Triumph

Pittsburgh has contributed much to the wealth of the nation. Now it contributes health and happiness to the world.

Pittsburgh has discovered the real secret of rice—and by an entirely new process, originated and perfected by the House of Heinz and its Industrial Fellowship in Mellon Institute has produced, after 5 years of study and experiment, a food so good that the whole world must applaud the achievement.

Heinz Rice Flakes—so good you fairly revel in their dainty crispness and delicious popcorn flavor—and then you notice that you are feeling better, working better, looking better.

This is because the remarkable process, owned and used exclusively by Heinz, so utilizes the natural roughage of the rice that it imparts a moisture-absorbing property which is one of Nature's best eliminative aids.

Heinz Rice Flakes are always crisp in cream or milk. Eat them because they are so good—so different. See how joyously the children take to them.

BOYS RUN DOWN BY TRAIN 3 DEAD

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 9—(AP.)—Three small boys were killed, one hurt and two escaped uninjured when a south-bound passenger train of the Pennsylvania Railroad crashed into the group of six a short distance north of Franklin last night.

Clarence Ruffner, 11; Clifford Keener, 12, and Carl Keener, 7, were killed. Robert Ruffner, 5, was injured. The younger Ruffner was being carried by his brother and was hurled to safety when the train bore down on the frightened group. Willis Ruffner, 8, and James Keener, 9, escaped injury by springing to one side.

The boys left Oil City, their home, in a canoe for Pittsburgh. A short distance north of Franklin they abandoned their craft and set out to walk back home on the railroad tracks.

The noise of a northbound freight train on the other track is thought to have drowned out the sound of the passenger train as it bore down on them around a curve on the southbound track. Coroner J. W. Osenider has indicated that an investigation will be held.

VICTIM OF AUTO IMPROVED

Carol Steingraber, 6, of 3015 Arlington avenue, was injured when a driverless automobile, released from its parking place, crashed into a pole in Arlington avenue.

Her dress catching on a taxicab fender, Marie King, 3, of 161 River avenue, Whitaker, was dragged 40 feet in Eighth avenue, Homestead.

TOWNSHIPS SEEK ROAD WORK OUT OF TAX FUND

Plans for immediate improvement of secondary county roads with slag and cinders were discussed at a joint meeting of Collier and Fayette township road commissioners yesterday. Representative citizens attended. Construction of the new type roads could be carried on under the act of legislature permitting use of road tax funds for road work, it was pointed out. A petition asking authority will be presented soon to the county commissioners. It is estimated that from 75 to 100 miles of this type road could be built annually out of current taxation.

MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS

By Ida McGlone Gibson

I WASN'T having trouble with or over anything. Go way and leave me. I don't need your help. I was just crying—because I'm so lonesome without Rod."

Philip Tracy raised Natlee's face. "This is not the girl who took breakfast with mother this morning. I didn't know that girl at all."

"Well, you've nothing on me, Wynne Tracy. I came to the conclusion that I had never known you."

She made a gesture as though she were going to start the car.

"Wait a minute, Natlee. Can't we begin all over again?"

"No, Wynne. We were always beginning over and never ending anywhere. You really don't want me to begin again. You're not really sorry because I'm crying. It just makes you uncomfortable to see me cry. I wish you'd go away. I've got to start this car. If you want to play around with me awhile, all right. I'll let Jerry invite you to dine with us at one of the restaurants soon."

"Why drag Jerry in, Natlee? Come and dine with me."

"No, Wynne. I'm not going to start anything. You say you do not know me. Well, at last I think I know myself. I like you—I'm very fond of you—or I will be when you've shaved off that mustache and gotten back into American ways, but I'm not going to flirt with you—never again."

"That sounds like the old direct Natlee. I'm going to tell you something right now. If you don't love me you don't love any one—not even his highness, the bread pudding with the whipped prune sou., and so there's a chance for me, and for the first time in my life I'm going to try to make a girl love me."

CHAPTER LIV
OFF WITH THE OLD LOVE.

"ARE you talking to me or at me, Wynne Tracy?" asked Natlee Jones, throwing up her head in her characteristic way and looking Philip straight in the face.

Her eyes were now dry, bright and hard. "Whichever way you're speaking, I'll tell the cock-eyed world I do not intend to tune in my radio on your station. Good morning."

Quickly the car smashed into gear, almost knocking Phil down as the fenders came within an inch of hitting him, and its sudden speed pulled his hand off the door where Natlee was sitting.

Before he had braced himself on his feet, Natlee was out of earshot.

As Philip returned to his mother he fell back into his blase mood. Everything was all blah again. One by one he had noticed that his expected thrills had been only the veriest commonplaces. His arrival in New York had given him nothing. His old home had only evoked a sadness, for it brought back memories of Rod—and Natlee. Natlee seemed to be the greatest disappointment of all.

True, she might develop into something that would prove amusing, but at the present moment he seemed decades older than she. Her ideas and conversation were something that might become a bore.

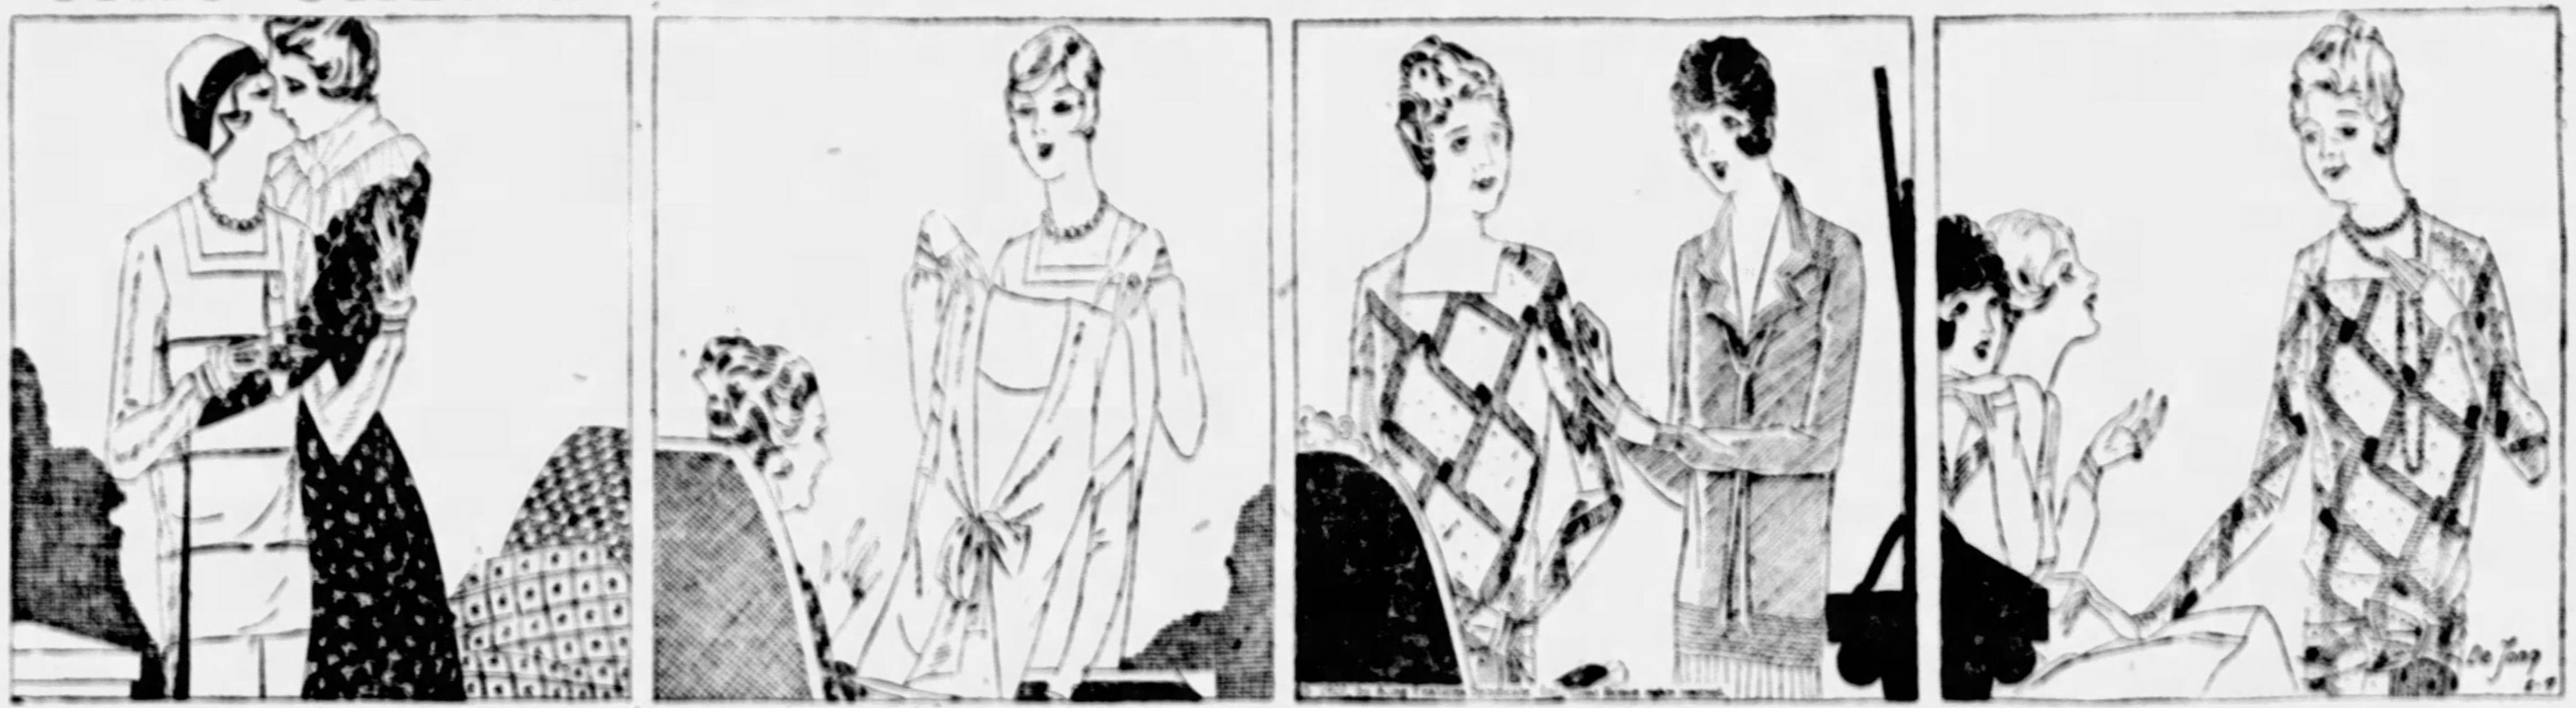
CHIC CHERIE ∴ No Age Limit on Cinderellas. ∴ LATEST FASHIONS



It is perfectly easy to see that Cherie found Aunt Em. And about time, too, since the combined capital of our two young women was fifty cents. It was perfectly simple. Cherie merely walked down Main Street and asked the first person she met. Cherie is being kissed in a blouse of crepe trimmed with self bands.

Aunt Em has been finding life a little dull since she sold the old farm to a real estate development company and retired on her capital. Not that one needs to be bored with life in order to admire a blouse of white crepe satin, collarless and finished with a big bow of the crepe satin in front.

It was Cherie's brilliant idea—to make over the dress and to make over Aunt Em. True, it was Dina's dress, but Dina was too polite to mention that fact. Dina is wearing a blouse that is worth noticing—of beige crepe trimmed with countless rows of stiching in the same shade of pale ale.

The dress looks so well on Aunt Em that Dina wonders why she ever thought it becoming to herself. It's a gray and black printed chiffon with a design that is quite in the modern mood. As a Cinderella, Aunt Em is so satisfactory that Cherie thinks something more should be done about her tomorrow.

FOR THE LOVELORN ∴ ∴ ∴ By ELEANOR GALE

Certainly Modern.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading your column for a while and, as everyone says, However most of them say that they think your advice wonderful. I don't, for you never give any. You beat around the bush. I am 23 years old and have had much and varied experience. A word about kissing or petting. I went to both kissing parties and dances since 12 or 13. My parents, particularly my father, are very strict. I have had dates, though my parents did not recognize them as such, since 13 years of age, and I have only gone out about two dozen times in my life without being kissed good night. One year from New Year's to spring I attended about ten kissing parties. In spite of all this, Miss Gale, I am popular with the best class of boys in our town, beloved by all my girl friends and looked up to and respected by their parents. About smoking, I think that it is all right for a girl to smoke, but it is my belief that because the majority of women smoke to show off people have misconstrued the purpose of those who get real enjoyment from it. I do not smoke myself, but I never show disapproval of it. About drinking, I do not think that the question need be discussed at all, for drinking is against the law of the country to which we belong and to which it is our duty to become good citizens. May I say a word about some of your numerous correspondents? Mary Jane, I think you are a "silly kid" as you told Miss Gale not to call you. In love at 16. It is impossible. I know that I would not speak to fellows I was wild about when in high school or even college. "Athenas," I pity you from the bottom of my heart, for religion is the [illegible] of one's life, or should be. "A Motherless Girl," I am as happy as you for I, too, am engaged to marry the best man in the world. I had my career first though. "A Modern Girl," I agree with you and don't carry it to extremes. I would like to meet some of the male correspondents, but I believe some of them would be extremely boring. I must ask your pardon for my lengthy letter and won't you please print it quickly, Miss Gale? I sign myself

CERTAINLY MODERN.

Sorry you disapprove of my advice, my dear.

Cleone.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a young girl of 18 and am engaged to a man 29 years of age. My parents object to our marriage because of the difference in our ages. This is their only objection. I feel that 11 years is not too great a difference and I also feel that I have a right to live my own life. Would I be making a mistake to marry this man, whom I love very deeply and who returns my love a hundred-fold? Please advise me. CLEONE.

If your interests are mutual and your temperaments compatible I don't think that the difference in your ages should be a bar to your marriage. I am sure that if your parents were convinced that you could find happiness with the young man you love, they would not stand in the way of your marriage. It is for you to assure them that you could be happy with nobody else. However, you must realize that you are young and that your parents probably think that you are too young to have found a real and lasting love. Perhaps if you agreed to put your love to the test of time, they would look with greater favor upon your fiance.

Lonesome Brown Eyes.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been going with a young man for almost four months. I love him and he says he loves me. But he has been going with another girl for a long time and seems to love her better than me. It will break my heart to give him up. What can I do to win his love?

LONESOME BROWN EYES.

Of course, if he imagines he loves both, he really doesn't love either of you. Be as interesting and companionable as you know how. Keep him as a friend. Perhaps in time he may find that you mean enough to him to drop the other girl. In the meantime I must caution against suggesting that he break with her. Don't show any jealousy. A friendly indifference on your part may pique him to greater interest.

Brown Eyes.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a young boy in my early teens. I have just moved here. There is a girl here whom I have wanted to meet. She knows me and I know her. We have not yet had a chance to talk together. She often smiles at me, therefore I believe she likes me. I do not know any of the girls and boys who would introduce me in a way I should like. Now what I want to know is, how shall I become her friend? Waiting for an early answer, I remain,

BROWN EYES.

Get acquainted with some boy who knows her and have him introduce you. There is no other way that I know. It should be a very simple matter to make friends with these boys.

Quicksands of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

A New Phase of Revelations of a Wife.

AH! THIS is something delicious," Dicky said, when I had brought in the iced fruit drink he had asked me to make, and he had drained a glass of it with avidity. "I don't believe I ever was so thirsty."

He poured out another glass and began sipping it slowly.

"You people don't know what you're missing," he said. "Of course, if Dad can't stand lemon juice, he's excused. But what's gotten into you, Madge? You never used to pass this up."

"I've made up my mind it isn't good for me," I said, truthfully enough. "I used to drink an occasional glass of it with you, but I haven't taken any of it for weeks."

Dicky muttered something under his breath like "Blasted finicky all of a sudden," but he made no further protest. My father looked over at him quizzically.

"Do you mean to tell me, Richard, that you indulge in this beverage every night?"

"That's right," Dicky answered. "I don't have it in the cold winter months, but as soon as the spring comes I send out an S. O. S. to Madge. I suppose it's partly habit, but the stuff sure is refreshing. Madge makes it up every night and sets it in the refrigerator. Then before I climb into bed I put it on the table beside the bed and sip it while I read manuscripts. You know, besides reading the ones I have to illustrate myself, I go over a lot of others for Martin, the X. Y. Z. art editor, and it sure does get tiresome. I need nutriment while I read some of 'em. I'll radio the universe."

My father laughed, and made no further comment upon Dicky's indulgence in the beverage. But I noticed him furtively watching my husband all through the evening, and when we finally parted, my fatheer to go to a suite which I had secured for him in the apartment building next door, I saw him engage Dicky in earnest conversation, and guessed that he was trying to extract from my obstinate husband a promise that he would see a physician.

"Dad's sure cuckoo about my consulting a physician," he said, crossly, when we were back in the living-room again. "I suppose you put him up to it."

I had a sudden inspiration, born of long experience with my husband's obstinacy. The surest way to get Dicky to do anything is to pretend indifference or aversion to the project.

"No, I didn't," I said, "and I really don't see any more reason for your consulting a physician now than there has been right along. You surely ought to be the best judge of that yourself. If you're not really ill, the man you consult will have to do something to make you think he's earning his fee, and you may find yourself on an operating table before you know it."

Dicky stared at me for a second, then laughed a bit unpleasantly.

"This is a little different than the spiels you used to throw," he said. "Never anybody so set on doctors as you were. Guess you're not so concerned as you once were—or pretended you were."

"You are unjust and unkind," I flamed.

"Ye-es?" he drawled unpleasantly, then changed his manner suddenly.

"Sorry, old dear," he said. "That wasn't a very clubby thing to say. The truth is that I'm afraid Dad is right. I'm not feeling especially fit. I think, at that, I'll take his advice and drop in to see Babcock some day soon, now. I'd only say something else to make you mad if I stayed around in my present humor."

Listening In on Eve

(Copyright by Associated Newspapers.)

BILLY was not allowed to ring the bell. His father attended to the bell-ringing. There was something particular about this particular bell-ringing at this particular time.

Billy was not allowed to knock the knocker, the handsome brass knocker. His little white fist was intercepted by his parents, although it was a clean fist, remarkably so for Billy.

While mamma was adjusting her short sweet dress and surveying her extensive silk stockings, and while papa was scrutinizing his fingernails, Billy took a peep through the tall narrow glass window on his side of the door. He saw a long, wide and inactive stairway and mysterious doors, and one door away at the back. There was a wide and inactive stairway and some statues frozen in rheumatic attitudes emphasized the museumish stillness of the interior.

As there was no commotion as the result of the bell-ringing he repeated his petition that he be allowed to ring the bell or knock the knocker. He was allowed to do neither. Papa Martin said it wasn't necessary, that the servant whose duty it was to open the door would arrive ultimately. The reason for the delay was the remoteness from the front door. Papa Martin seemed to know about the inner workings of the grand house, and was proud of his knowledge. Mamma Martin had never been in the house before, but she held it in awe. She rebuked Billy when she caught him peeping through the narrow window, caught him by the elbow and pulled him away from the peeping place. She also seized the opportunity to admonish concerning his conduct in general, with adjurations that he keep his hands to himself and remember his manners.

Safety first! Remember your manners! Your hands are clean and your shoes are polished. If you can just remember your manners all will be well. You can't be too particular when visiting grand old relatives who live in a grand old house and have a grand old bank account.

Billy slid back to the window and had another peep. Great excitement. He saw the door at the rear of the hall open and an old man come forth. The old man in due time opened the front door. He knew Papa Martin and nodded to him encouragingly and even stood aside and let the entire Martin family enter, including Billy who, keeping his hands stiffly to himself, followed his parents and the servant through the big doors into a cozy room, where there was a grand old lady sitting on a comfortable chair not too far from the big fireplace.

Billy squirmed back into a chair until his back found support. It was a deep chair, and it left his feet sticking up in the air, more or less obliterating Aunt Henrietta from his view. But there was no rule of conduct forbidding this.

Indeed Billy observed all the rules of etiquette punctiliously, just as they had been taught him at home. The luncheon was progressing smoothly and steadily. A servant lurking in the background glided forward anticipating every one's needs. He silently presented the plate to the guests according to the rules governing the dispensation of food. Papa and Mama Martin almost convinced that the luncheon would continue to progress smoothly and they relaxed.

And then toward the end of the feast some delicious cakes were insinuated upon the table by the tactful waiting man, who withdrew discreetly to a remote quarter of the room.

Billy could not be expected to ignore those cakes, pink and chocolate-covered, placed squarely before him. They called to his responsive young heart as roses call to the honey bee. If he had been trained to ignore cakes, perhaps he could have done so. But he had not. He had been trained only to see that his neighbors at the table were supplied first. Billy, if near the base of supplies, must first offer the plate to his father and his mother. After that he could help himself.

Billy meant no harm at all. He remembered his manners. He was going to hand the cake plate to Aunt Henrietta and his mother and his father—and then partake himself. He reached forth his still clean young hand for the grasping part of the cake container, that slickery, stem-like part below the bare-breasted ladies whose raised hands supported the bowl. Alas! The graspable part was too slickery and too thin. The top-heavy bowl upset like a cornucopia spilling its treasures abroad. The unmendable thing had happened.

Billy's father got red in the face and scowled upon him fiercely. His mother turned white and pulled in her lips and rolled her eyes and sighed and leaned back in her chair. Billy felt himself growing very hot in the collar. A lump came in his throat.

And then Aunt Henrietta laughed.

The Fascinating Love Story of a Girl of the Present Day

Lorrimer Unmasks; Betty Finds Herself in a Perilous Position

time!" she exclaimed, "the others are awfully late. Are you sure they didn't mistake the night? You know, party or no party, it is almost time for me to start home?"

"I know—Cinderella—" he replied and laughed a little. Then he lifted his head and faced her with a very engaging and appealing expression in his hazel eyes. His face was peculiarly pale and clear cut tonight, accentuated by the conventional black and white of his dinner clothes.

"Betty—forgive me. I've a confession to make. Please hear me out. The party has come."

"But I don't understand!" she answered quite innocently, staring at him in genuine bewilderment.

"Don't you? Come, you must. You are the party, my dear, as central would say—"

"But—Mr. Lorrimer!"

He raised one hand, in deprecation.

"Betty—please—I never have a chance to see you alone—only in restaurants and things with a million people around or sometimes over in Brooklyn where you are completely surrounded by your family. Or here, one of 20 guests. I wanted to see you so much, to talk to you quietly, about a thousand things, about some plans I had—Oh, surely, you won't be angry! I changed it, you see. I have a supper ordered—it will be up in a minute or two—we can have a pleasant hour together and then you shall go home. I knew if I asked you outright the silly conventions might prevent you—and so—Oh, do forgive me!"

Betty was uncomfortable and vexed.

"But you shouldn't—I must go at once—"

She rose and he was clever enough to make no move to detain her.

"Please, Betty; please stay—and have something to eat. I'll order the car . . . but—another half hour won't be very dreadful, will it? If you won't stay I will believe I have offended past forgiveness," he pleaded.

Her resolution wavered. The fire, the great room, restful and still for all the dancing flame and the incessant life of the logs, the flying sparks on the great hearth reflected in the table things . . . and she was tired.

Oh, unconventional enough, of course. But they were old friends—trusted friends . . . why not? Just for half an hour?

She shrugged, sighed and approached the divan slowly. . . . Lorrimer, watching her like a cat, breathed a silent sigh of relief. So far, so good!

"Very well, then . . . but I have not really forgiven you yet," she answered, half laughing, half serious, "but—it's all so very tempting."

He poured the pale Rhine wine into the glasses and lifted the covers from chicken and mushrooms under glass, from a marvelous salad and a molded, fantastic sweet.

"Thank you; you have been most generous," he told her; "now to please me?"

He helped her and himself, and in 10 minutes they were eating and talking as if no cloud had threatened.

The silent waiters came up later, as on a signal, and removed the trays. Betty and Lorrimer were alone again, with the firelight . . .

Betty was . . . a little sleepy, if the truth be told. She was also content and happy and satisfied. Now she roused herself with a graceful gesture, like a lithe animal stretching beautiful limbs.

"It's been . . . lovely," she said dreamily, "and you are quite forgiven . . . but I must go now . . . it is so late . . . they'll be so worried."

"Betty," somehow he was beside her, had her hand in his.

"Betty, darling little Betty, don't go—stay here with me and the firelight and the silence."

His voice had husked suddenly, his pupils were dilated, they looked yellow-green, a cat's eye, a tiger's eye. He had drawn her close against him, she seemed to be sinking with him into an eternity of firelight and darkness and soft, silken cushions. She could feel his heart pounding, could feel his breath on her cheeks."

"Ah, let me go!" she cried, softly, desperately.

Somehow she was free. She was on her feet, shamefully dishevelled, panting.

But he was beside her and both her wrists were pinioned. They stood there a moment, enemies, and then she flung back her head and tried to twist her wrists away.

She was voiceless. She twisted in a sullen silence, wishing fiendly, for some wrath to overtake him—wishing he could fall dead at her feet.

She found speech at last, broken, melodramatic.

"You—vile creature. I despise you—I loathe you!"

"There's always force," he suggested.

She thought.

"I'll kill myself—I'll kill myself—I can't live. I couldn't—"

All her instincts rose to protect her body and soul. She was terrified, yet young. She was so physically ill she thought she must faint. If she fainted—. No, she would not faint—she would not lose consciousness unless it were for eternity.

Bob—Bob.

She must have spoken the beloved name aloud. Lorrimer laughed out in evil jealousy. He crushed her closer—lifted her from the floor—she struck, vainly, at his face—a table overturned.

There was a sound of an elevator stopping at his floor, of quick determined footsteps walking toward the door.

The bell rang.

Lorrimer loosened his clasp of the girl and cursed. He stood a moment irresolute. Betty crouched away from him, trying to arrange the disorder of dress and hair with shaking hands. She was whiter than the death she had prayed for a moment since.

The bell rang again, imperatively.

"Pull yourself together," said Lorrimer, curtly, and walked toward the door.

He opened it, viciously. Was it a damned fool waiter come back for something?

"Good evening," said Harry Martin from the threshold. "I heard there was a party on and dropped in to see."

I mean, you can talk STEADily to him for HOURS at a stretch and he will never say a WORD, because he simply has NO converSAtion, do you know what I mean? Building and Flying Model Airplanes

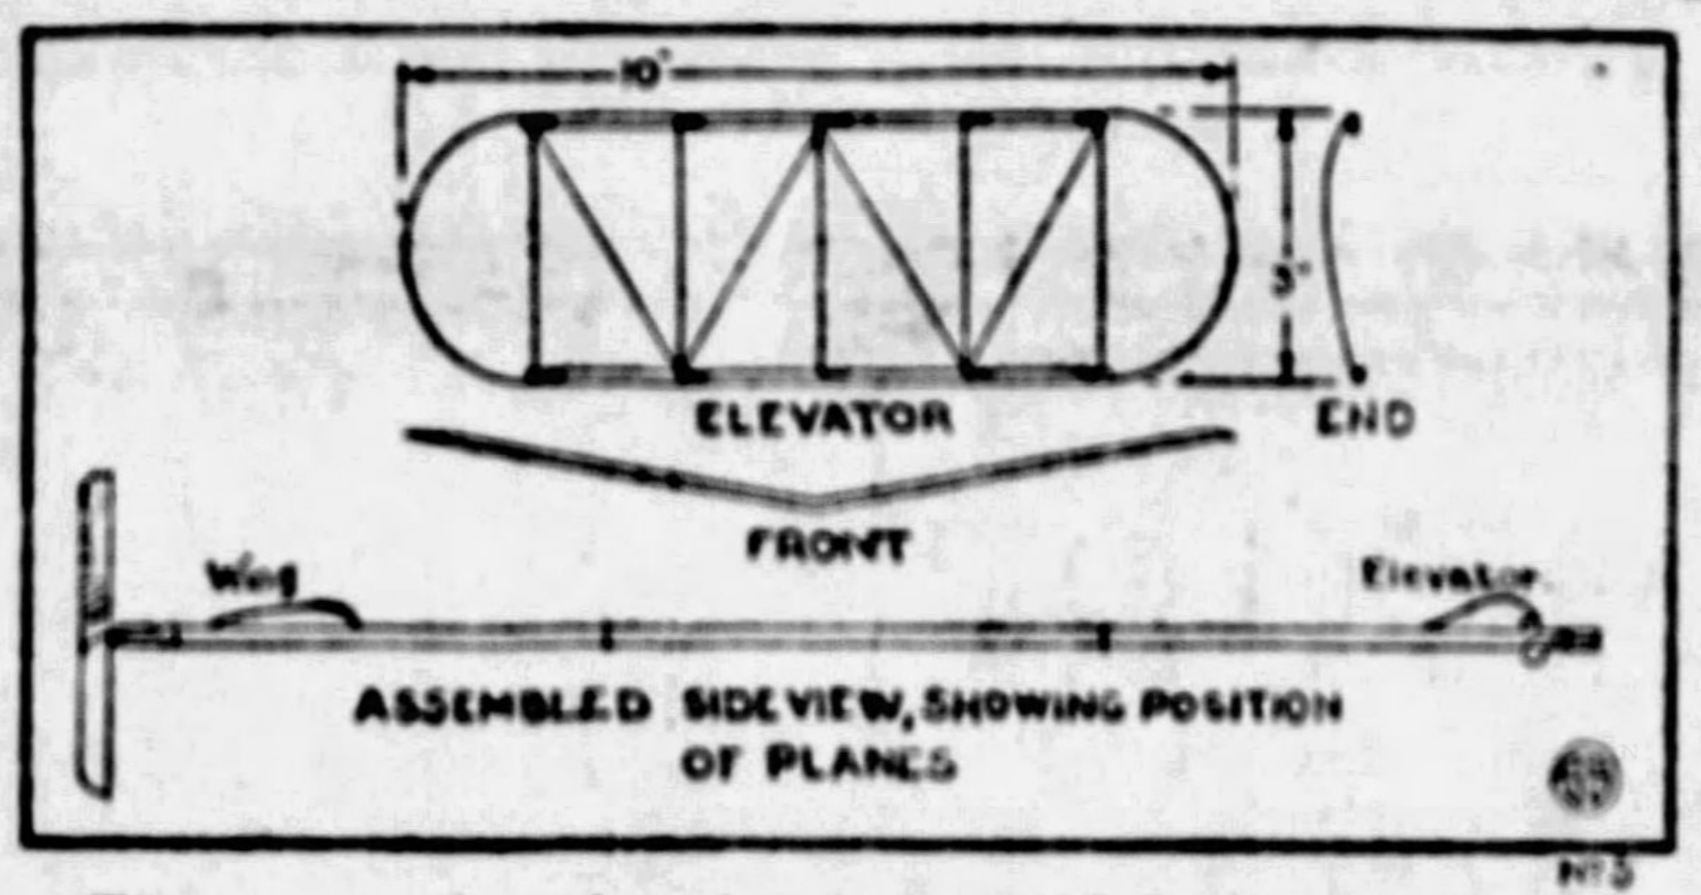
By PAUL EDWARD GARBER,
In-Charge of Aeronautics, Smithsonian Institution.

Making the Elevator and Assembling



The construction of model airplane "S-S-1" is now complete except for the small wing or elevator. The elevator is made in the same manner as the wing which was described yesterday.

The following material is necessary for today's work:

Two pine sticks, 8x¼x1-16 in.

Twenty-seven and one-half inches of No. 16 aluminum wire.

Remnant of silk or paper from yesterday.

Thread, needle and pins.

Glue and wing solution.

Three rubber bands 3 inches long.

One block of pine wood 1½x¼ inch square.

The same directions that were used for making the wing may be followed making the elevator. But after the center of the sticks is found, bend each stick slightly upward. This bending is done by either heating the center above a candle flame and bending it as the wood fibres are felt to give, or by soaking these two sticks about half an hour in boiling water, after which they are placed in a form made by hammering nails into a piece of wood so as to make a "V" shaped fence against which the sticks are held by other nails. They should be left in this frame overnight to dry, after which they will permanently retain the angle.

ELEVATOR BENT

The idea of having the elevator bent upward is to impart steadiness to the model's flight. This angle is known as "dihedral." The front view of the elevator shows the amount of dihedral necessary. It is such that the tips are one inch above level. The ribs are placed 1¾ inch apart.

The methods of bracing and covering are the same as were used for the wing.

At the bottom of the drawing is shown a side view of the model when assembled. It will be observed that the wing is placed near the back, with the greatest curve of the wing toward the point of the model. The elevator is placed near the nose with the edge which is near the greatest curve resting on the small block of wood. The idea of this is to raise it to secure proper lift.

The wing and elevator are held in place with rubber bands. To use these for fastening the wing the rubber bands are placed under the long sticks of the frame and the loops on each side of the stick are held open above the stick while the wing is slipped underneath. It is carefully centered and lined up true. The elevator is fastened in a similar manner, but the rubber band is looped under the two sticks, as they are so close together near the point. The model is now ready to be flown. Tomorrow we will explain how this is done.

Deviled Eggs.

Four hard-boiled eggs, 1 teaspoon mustard or mustard to taste, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, dash cayenne pepper, dash paprika, 3 tablespoons melted butter or oleomargarine or salad oil, 1 tablespoon vinegar. Cut hard boiled eggs in half lengthwise, remove yolks, being careful not to break whites. Powder yolks with fork, then add mustard, salt, pepper, paprika and vinegar mixed together, add butter or oil and mix until smooth; or ⅓ cupt mayonnaise dressing may be used instead of seasoning. Fill into whites of eggs and rough top with fork. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

Yellow Room

Yellow is a delightfully decorative color, reminiscent of sunlight, gold coins, tea roses, country butter, marigolds, and the blondes men prefer. Yellow will bring a sunny effect to a sunless room if rightly distributed. It is an excellent bedroom color for the brunette.

In a country home that was old and infirm in many ways an interior decorator did what was termed a "butter and egg" room that was charming. The walls were papered with a paper having corn-color ground with groups of very narrow gold, cream and black stripes, with a narrow black and gold border at the top. The design gave height to the low-ceilinged room. Electric wires that had to run across the ceiling were tinted deep cream to match the ceiling. The paper concealed them where they ran down the side walls for the bracket lights. The woodwork was done in black with enameled finish, and a yellow note was added in the apple wood door handles that were simply oiled.

The old floor which had wide boards was painted black and highly polished, then covered as much as possible with yellow and black rugs of the old braided and woven type. The draperies chosen were of French cretonne having a yellow ground with a well-covered pattern in black poppies, and vines, with cream centers and buds. The ornamental lambrequin effect at the top was done in plain black cretonne.

Some of the furniture was new and of willow that was painted with black in the border design, and the natural color of the willow was heightened by a tinted enamel. The rest of the furniture was slipped attractively with the same cretonne that was used for the hangings. The couch, slipped with the cretonne had pillows in all shades of yellow from cream to deep orange, with two or three black ones with gay appliques for contrasting effect. Summery looking lamp shades were made of finely plaited glazed chintz in a shaded yellow design that blended well with the rest of the fittings. The charm in the old room with the sunny effect of the color scheme was felt the moment one entered.

Beautify Your Floors

The New Premier Duplex Floor Polisher

$10

Complete!

THE reflective beauty of waxed floors always attracts instant admiration. Your floors can have that glowing deep-toned luster, with but little expense and effort.

This 13 inch Premier Duplex Floor Polisher accessory enables you to wax and polish your floors much more quickly than with the ordinary floor polisher, which, as you know, is only 6 inches wide and costs 42.50—just think how much this saves.

All you need to do is to attach it to your Premier Duplex Sweeper. Then spread a very thin coat of prepared wax over your floors. Allow it to dry well. Now turn on the current and run the cleaner very slowly over the surface. The brush, revolving over the same spot for a few seconds, creates a slight heat which gives your floor a beautiful burnished luster.

And you can get the same remarkable results on practically every kind of floor surface—wood, linoleum, tile, marble or composition. Yes, even if it is finished with varnish, shellac, wax or paint.

Ask to be shown how quickly and easily the Premier Duplex imparts lustrous beauty to dull, lifeless floors.

"BETTY" By FAITH BALDWIN

The Fascinating Love Story of a Girl of the Present Day

Lorrimer Unmasks; Betty Finds Herself in a Perilous Position

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Pretty black-haired Betty Warren goes on a pleasure trip with some friends, including Bob Stevenson. Betty lives with her mother and two sisters in Brooklyn and works as a typist in New York City. On Sunday the whole Warren family assembles for dinner, Helen the 16-year-old beauty of the family; Gladys, the artistic dreamer; Mrs. Warren, motherly and impractical; Betty's married sister, Virginia, with her little boy, Junior, and her husband, Jim, who was gassed in the war. Betty is acquainted with a wealthy author, Anson Lorrimer, and Virginia urges her to try to attract him. Bob asks Betty to marry him and she accepts. Lorrimer invites Betty to lunch and she accepts. Lorrimer calls at Betty's home and meets Bob, who forms a dislike for him. Betty and Bob quarrel. Their engagement is broken. Lorrimer gets Betty a better job in an office where Harry Martin is employed. Lorrimer entertains lavishly, but his pursuit of Betty is discreet.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

ESCORTING Betty home, Martin had a thrill when Gladys opened the door to them. And Gladys confided to Betty after he had gone, "I like his face . . . I hope he comes again . . . I'd like to make a sketch of him."

This was the beginning of an acquaintance that quickly ripened into affection and engagement of Harry and Gladys.

Thanks to Betty's help, Martin landed the order for the stocking ad. He felt he was made. He, Gladys and Betty celebrated with a party—Gladys' first.

Lorrimer saw them and came over. But he began to fear the consequences of Harry's interest in the Warrens. If the young fool actually stepped out of his class and married Gladys then—then he, Lorrimer, would have Harry to deal with if harm should come to Betty.

He did not call it harm, however. Lorrimer was getting restless. Events were not moving fast enough. It was time that he saw Betty alone. Not a party, not in some crowded place and certainly not in her home. Where then—and how?

He began to make his careful plans.

A few days later Betty refused an invitation from Harry because she was to go to a party at Lorrimer's studio. He had told her Peter Lessways, the Neils and Sonia would be there. Strange, Harry thought, that he had not been invited.

Lorrimer himself let her in. He lived in a very expensive, very discreet apartment house and had the bungalow on the roof, most of which had been thrown into an immense studio living room, with a glass roof. It was beautifully furnished and not overcrowded.

He smiled delightedly at sight of her.

Betty listened subconsciously for the sound of voices.

None came.

"Aren't the rest here yet?"

"Oh, I told them a casual hour," he explained easily, "and they will drift in later. Come on in and be comfortable. I have a fire burning. It is too warm to need it, really, but it's so pretty—driftwood, you know—I always have one on any or no provocation."

They talked for a while, easily, pleasantly as friends talk. The time passed swiftly. The striking of a clock in the hall brought Betty to herself.

"For heaven's sake! Look at the

SAYS N. Y. GOSSIPS RIVAL SMALL TOWNS

MERCER, Aug. 9.—They gossip just as much in New York as in the small towns, according to Rev. Dr. O. H. L. Mason, pastor of the Van Ness Presbyterian Church, New York City, in an address at church services here. "Small towns have no monopoly of gossip," he declared. "If you gossip more here than in New York you will have to go some."

SOVIETS STRIP TROTZKY OF POWER

International News Service Wire.

MOSCOW, Aug. 9.—Trotzky and Zinovieff have been expelled from the Central Committee of the Communist Party by an overwhelming vote of the Plenum, according to reliable reports today.

No official statement has been issued on the vote as yet.

The final expulsion of Trotzky and Zinovieff have been leading the optee completes the stripping of power from these two men who were once high in the Communist councils.

For more than a year Trotzky and Zinovieff have been leadinf the opposition to the present communist policies, and as their opposition has continued they have been deprived of office after office.

When the Plenum of the Central Committee went into session last week it was reported that Joseph Stalin had given warning that all those of the opposition who failed to give a pledge of allegiance to the party and its policies would be drastically dealt with. Many deserted the opposition, but Trotzky and Zinovieff held fast and now pay the penalty of expulsion.

Ex-Service Man Writes Letter to Mr. Hearst

A copy of the following letter, sent to William Randolph Hearst, has been sent to the Sun-Telegraph office:

Dear Mr. Hearst:

I have been in Pittsburgh for seven years and when I noticed that you had become owner of some Pittsburgh newspapers, I could not help but be reminded of what you personally did for me when discharged from the Government Hospital in New York City and all ex-service men in general.

Your newspaper was always willing to co-operate with any needs pertaining to the soldiers of the late war or any other activities which they might have been interested in, and I feel that the ex-service men of Pittsburgh ought to know that Mr. Hearst or any of his publications have always been for the ex-service men.

I wish at this time to congratulate you, as a soldier who served in the Philippines, on the Border and in France, a member of the American Legion and Past Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, on your entry in the Pittsburgh newspaper circles and wish you success in the future, knowing that with the success of your paper in Pittsburgh, the soldiers will always have a friend.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN DEUTSCH.

SYNTHETIC GAS TO SELL FOR 10 CENTS

Universal Service Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Gasoline—10 cents a gallon.

It's synthetic—but it'll make automobiles run.

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, said he had closed a deal with the German dye trust for production of synthetic motor fuel.

If further practical tests verify the experiments so far completed, it means the elimination of the fear of a fuel famine.

The synthetic gasoline process has been studied by Walter E. Trent, chemist and engineer, and pronounced reasonable.

In brief, it consists of pulverizing low grade coal and screenings. After certain treatments, there remains a mushy substance from which a high grade motor gasoline is made.

BEAUTY CROWN TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY

Ticket sale reports indicate a capacity throng at the Willows pool, Oakmont, Saturday afternoon when "Miss Pittsburgh 1927" will be selected from 92 finalists. The tickets, which went on sale Saturday, are available at the A. G. Spalding and Bros. store, 608 Wood street, and at the Oakmont resort.

Eight winners of theater finals will be guests at a theater party tonight. George Sharp, manager of the George Sharp Production Stock Company, will be host at the Pitt Theater to finalists from the Arcadia Theater, North Side, and the Ideal, West End, at a performance of his company in the comedy, "If I Were Rich," starring Herbert Clark and Anne Forrest.

Livelier competition than has ever marked the tournament for a beauty queen is expected. Heretofore contestants had an open field, there not being any previous eliminations. With the 23 leading motion picture theaters of Greater Pittsburgh already having held eliminations and selected finalists, closer rivalry is foreseen.

Not alone will the beauty queen crown and the honor for an alternate be awarded, but 23 vacation trips to Atlantic City and Washington for nine days, with all expenses paid, will be distributed to leading contenders. Each theater will send one girl on the seashore trip, and the four finalists from each playhouse will compete for this award carrying the title of "Miss (name of theater)."

A second feature will be staged at night, when "Miss Pittsburgh 1927," her alternate and the vacation trip winners will be guests at the Willows. A special dinner program will be arranged for the presentation of the loving cup to the Beauty Queen.

GENERAL WOOD BURIED AMONG HERO COMRADES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood today joined the long list of the nation's notable figures who have made the journey down Pennsylvania avenue, over the Potomac to Arlington National Cemetery, and a final resting place.

Full military honors and participation of high government officials in the funeral procession bespoke the country's tribute to the famous old soldier who died Sunday in Boston.

Arriving in the early morning, the general's body was moved from the train to the President's room at Union Station for a time before being entrusted to a regiment of troops waiting to escort it to a grave in the Rough Riders' section of the heroes' burial ground at Arlington.

Mrs. Wood, her two sons and daughter were in the funeral party.

Through a city whose mourning was exemplified by drooping flags at half-mast, the cortege passed in cadence with booming minute guns echoing from Fort Myer.

The burial spot selected at the direction of Mrs. Wood was a plot close to the grave of Admiral Sampson, a hero of the Spanish-American War, in which Gen. Wood also gave brilliant service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Through the great stone and steel train shed of Pennsylvania Station, its vastness heightened by the gray of early dawn, the strains of "taps" whispered this morning.

Muted by the bugler, the notes echoed softly to the ears of a few grimy trainmen and a few scattered travelers, dozing on the benches.

In the baggage car of a southbound express, a squad of soldiers stood immobile at attention around a casket whose simplicity was emphasized by its rich drapings of silken flags. Behind the soldiers ranged a few newspapermen, heads bared.

The impromptu but none the less impressive ceremony attended the placing upon the coffin of the late Major General Leonard Wood a wreath from the Grover Cleveland Memorial Association.

FLOOD TERROR SPREADS

VICKSBURG, Miss., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Officials of the third Mississippi River district are seriously concerned over the present flood in the Arkansas River, which, while it will be of short duration, may cause trouble below Pine Bluff and possibly interrupt the levee repair work at Pendleton and Medford. South Bend is fully protected by a temporary levee.

MRS. THAW'S SISTER DIES

Miss Jane Copley, daughter of the late Josiah and Margaret Copley and a sister of Mrs. William Thaw, is dead at the summer home of her niece, Mrs. Margaret Wade, at Mt. Hermon, Cal.

Miss Copley had been living in California several years, at her niece's home in Piedmont. She was ill several weeks preceding her death.

She was born at Appleby Manor, the Copley home, near Kittanning, and came to Pittsburgh wtih her family when a young woman. She resided here the greater part of her life.

Her father was a widely known writer. Miss Copley was the writer of a metrical version of the Psalms under the title of "The Peerless Poems of David, the King." She was a member of the Third Presbyterian Church.

The body is being brought to Pittsburgh for interment in the family lot at Allegheny Cemetery.

CURWOOD IMPROVED

LOCAL FASHION QUEEN SURE SHE'LL WIN

By ALFHILD LARSON,
Pittsburgh's Fashion Queen.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 9. — (Special.)—Yesterday it poured rain all day long. We went to the theater, feeling certain that it was only a matter of form and that we would be told there was to be no performance. But, at 7:30 o'clock the moon came out and our director told us to dress.

The Garden Theater, an open-air place, was dripping wet. In spite of this only about 150 seats were vacant.

There were leather coverings on the seats and the crowd was quite as enthusiastic as it had been before. Tonight, as usual, I won the popularity vote. If applause has anything to do with it I will surely win the title of National Queen of Fashion.

Rumor persists every night that I have won the most votes and, judging from the applause, I can't doubt it.

Last night we went to a roof garden after the show. It was my first experience and I was thrilled. There was a movie man here last evening while we were out. He left his card and said he wanted to make a screen test. I saw stills of the pictures taken Saturday and they are excellent.

HOLD THREE IN UTICA BLAST

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Three persons were held without bail today in connection with the bomb explosions in East Utica which caused damage of $300,000.

Police officials expect further developments today in solving the blasts which rocked the city and wrecked half a dozen buildings. Detectives working on the case declared there was no evidence connecting it with Sacco and Vanzetti sympathizers.

Owners and occupants of both buildings in which the blasts occurred were absent from the city at the time the bombs exploded.

Those under arrest are Anthony Gumina, 29, a barber; Luca Azarito, 51, laborer, and his son, Anthony, 16.

HOOVER TO TOUR FLOOD AREA

Universal Service Wire.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover and James L. Fieser, vice chairman of the American Red Cross, will tour the Mississippi Valley flood zone in September in a checkup of rehabilitation work.

The last of the emergency relief camps will be closed by that time. After that, field workers will devote their time toward reconstruction.

Red Cross relief funds probably will be exhausted at the end of September. Out of the $16,000,000 raised for flood relief, more than $14,000,000 has been spent. Eighteen thousand square miles of land was inundated, according to a recent survey.

243 CIVILIAN FLIERS LICENSED IN AMERICA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The Commerce Department has licensed 243 civilian aviators under the regulations of the Air Commerce act of 1926. Hundreds of others have applied in the three classes—private, transport and industrial—and licenses will be issued as fast as the applicants pass tests. Licenses have been issued to famous pilots as follows: Colonel Lindbergh, No. 69; C. S. (Casey) Jones, test pilot of the Curtiss Company, No. 13; Paul B. King, son of Senator King, Utah, No. 70; Leslie P. Arnold, former Army round-the-world-flier, No. 250.

'COON BREEDER JAILED

Charged with having raised and sold raccoons without a license, J. R. Fleming, 41, of Oak Hill, Turtle Creek, today was lodged in the county jail to serve 172 days. His commitment resulted when he failed to pay a fine of $172 imposed last night by Justice of the Peace George B. Shields of Wilkinsburg.

DAMON RUNYON SAYS

DAMON RUNYON

ONE thing about the boys from Elk City—they are not easily discouraged. Elk City, in case you do not happen to have an atlas handy, is in West Virginia, hard by Charleston. Elk City is a thriving community and claims fame as the home of Mr. Fred Perry, the Elk City Flash.

Mr. Perry is a gallus young man who manages the Casino at Marinao, in Havana, in the winter season, and keeps Broadway up after hours in the summer. He puts in his spare time at the famous Volney Club, in West Forty-first street and takes an occasional flier in speculation on the pugilistic market. Or, if trade chances to be dull therein Mr. Perry will try his hand at anything else—at least once, and sometimes twice.

I have had my expert accountants figuring Mr. Perry up over a period of eight or nine years and they report to me that there is now a difference of about $150,000 between him and Mr. Jack Dempsey, the well-known Manassa man-mauler. That is to say, Mr. Perry is that far behind Mr. Dempsey. Mr. Perry has wagered on or against Mr. Dempsey three different times in the period stated and has yet to call Mr. Dempsey correctly.

But Mr. Perry will never be ruled off for not trying. Now he is up and at 'em again, this time begging on Mr. Tunney to whale Mr. Dempsey on the shores of Lake Michigan. Mr. Perry figures that the law of average ought to be running for him on this occasion, along with Mr. Tunney's right-hand smack to the elly-bay, as we say at the club.

IN an excess of enthusiasm Mr. Perry slightly overlaid the price the other evening, giving somebody 3 to 1 against Mr. Dempsey to the tune of $10,000 to $30,000, and as Frisco would say, "that ain't hay." But, of course, 3 to 1 is not a standard price with Mr. Perry, and when he became calmer he shortened up to 2 to 1.

He thinks Mr. Tunney should be about 1 to 100, but what a man thinks and what he lays are two different propositions. However, a lot of the lads along Broadway think the price will be 2½ to 1 at post time in Chicago.

I recall Mr. P. showing up in Toledo back in 1919 with $15,000 in his pant's pocket, and a firm conviction that Mr. Jess Willard would knock Mr. Dempsey back to Manassa. There being a paucity of apartments in Toledo at the time, Mr. Perry shared my humble couch and I spent the better part of a very hot night trying to show Mr. Perry the fallacy of his idea.

I thought I had him convinced, but the next day he bet his $15,000 on Mr. Willard and afterwards I discovered he had been asleep all the time I was talking to him and never heard what I said.

He bet $30,000 on Mr. Dempsey to beat Mr. Tunney at Philadelphia last year, then bet $26,000 on the terrible Sharkey man to beat Mr. Dempsey. Or at least he lost that much. As a matter of fact, he had wagered more than $36,000 on the terrible Sharkey man, but along about the third round up at the Yankee Stadium he took a violent liking to Mr. Dempsey.

HE MANAGED to hedge off a little in smallish bets, including one with Mr. George McManus, but he was still plenty in the red when Mr. Dempsey whipped over that left hook.

Mr. George McManus sat at the ringside stolidly laying 3 to 5 on the terrible Sharkey man right up to the moment that the boys lugged Sharkey off to the cleaners. Mr. McManus is one of those betters whose operations are seldom heard of, but I will guarantee he had as much money on the terrible Sharkey man as anyone in the land.

That includes Mr. Arnold Rothstein. I am told that Mr. Rothstein "went for a gob," as the boys say. The figure was around $175,000. I imagine that Mr. I. Belber, otherwise Mr. Kid Bebee, of turf fame, lost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Mr. Kid Bebee and Mr. Fred Perry are of such obstinate dispositions that when they get hold of an opinion it is difficult to shake 'em loose therefrom. They both bet 'em high, wide and handsome when they get their necks bowed. And when I tell you that they bet I do not mean perhaps. They both hate to say no.

Oddly enough, Mr. Perry and Mr. Dempsey are good friends of years' standing. But Mr. Perry is convinced that Mr. Dempsey is through as a fighter and, though it has cost him plenty to date, "The Elk City

Committee Is Selected

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

PLANS have been definitely set to banquet Carl F. Kauffmann, the national public links champion, and Pat McDonough, city champion; Dick Wessels, Walter Phillips, W. L. Howell and C. J. Lunden, other members of the local team which battled last week in Cleveland for national honors. The fete will be held on the porch of the clubhouse in Schenley Park on Thursday night, starting at 7:30 o'clock, and a nominal charge of $2.50 will be made. John Jay Burke, executive committeeman of the Public Links Section, U. S. G. A., will be in charge of affairs, he has issued a blanket invitation to every golfer in the district who wishes to attend.

A meeting was held last night in the Schenley Park club at which Burke was made chairman of a committee which also includes Kenneth C. Witherow, Roy T. Kluns, Ernie Herald, Andy Petrolis, Al McBride and Eddie Kusold. Reservations are being made with McBride, Schenley pro, and he may be reached by telephone at Schenley 9647.

Plans were formulated to present Kauffman with a handsome memento.

District officials and the women of the club also are expected to be in attendance. Several civic organizations have tendered their aid in making the affair a big success, the Kiwanians offered to put it over as an organization had the ball not already started rolling.

Everything is ready for the beginning of the annual invitation tournament of the Stanton Heights Golf Club, which is slated to get under way early tomorrow morning with an 18-hole qualifying round. Match play rounds will be played Thursday and Friday, with the final carded for the last afternoon. The course is in splendid condition.

The annual West Penn seniors' championship will be played at the Pleasant Valley Country Club of Connellsville and Scottdale either the latter part of this month or early in September. W. P. G. A. officials are trying to arrange a definite date at this time. Only golfers of more than 50 will be permitted to enter.

Short Putts

RANKINGS ANNOUNCED.

Robert Tyre (Bobby) Jones, Jr., of Atlanta remains the ranking player in the annual list of the first 16 golfers to be seeded into the draw of the national amateur championship, slated for the Minikahda Country Club, Minneapolis, the latter part of this month.

He is rated one notch higher than George Von Elm of California, who will be defending the title he won from Bobby last year, by the U. S. G. A.

Jess Sweetser, Francis Ouimet, Watts Gunn, Ben Stein, Eddie Held, Jess Guilford, Harrison R. Johnston and Roland Mackenzie are ranked thereafter in just that order.

It is surprising to note the presence of Ben Stein in the ranking—unquestionably it was a mark of appreciation of his fine western tournament play of last year; he is a coast golfer who appears to be a real comer, even if he has not just exactly "arrived."

Included in the second 16 nominated for the seeding, and alphabetically instead of numerically arranged, is D. Clark Corkran, George Dawson, Frank Dolp, R. E. Driggs, Jr., Charles Evans, Jr., William C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, James Manion, Max Marston, Fred J. Wright, Jr., and George J. Voigt.

It is mighty interesting to note also that George Voigt has been placed among the last 16—after the wealth of controversy over his eligibility for amateur play recently, in which he was absolved by the U. S. G. A., however, it comes as something of a surprise.

The ranking appears very satisfactory.

BRAND-JOSLYN PAIRED.

No less than 155 entries have been received by the U. S. G. A. for the national amateur this year, and this may be bolstered by four at least if the semi-finalists in the public links tourney decide to play. Tentative pairings for the opening day's 18 holes at medal play in the qualifying round have Fred Brand, Jr., of Sewickley, West Penn amateur and junior champion, paired with Merritt L. Joslyn of La Grange, Ill., starting off at 3:25 o'clock. They are the last to go. The first pair to tee off will be John Quedick of Omaha and Raymond Daly of Flossmoor, at 8:30 o'clock. The starting times will be changed for the final 18 holes on the second day. 32 will qualify for the match play rounds. Bobby Jones will be out after George Von Elm's title.

WOMEN'S TITLE EVENT.

Mrs. Riley of the Edgewood Country Club will defend her women's city championship on the Schenley muny links beginning next Monday. The tournament will take up the greater part of the week, with the qualifying round slated for Monday. Inasmuch as the affair is wide open to any woman in the city of Pittsburgh, whether a member of a private club or not, a large field is anticipated. Mrs. Al McBride, wife of the Schenley pro, and Mrs. Beejack appear to be the most formidable contenders for Mrs. Riley's crown.

MAY CHANGE DATES.

It is expected that the regular city championship, in which Pat McDonough will be given a chance to defend his title, will have to be postponed from August 19-21, as originally carded, if Carl Kauffmann goes to Minneapolis for the national amateur. He is the only public linker eligible in the Steel City and officials are willing to shift dates if necessary.

WET WEATHER HOLDS UP TITLE TENNIS TOURNEY

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Twenty-seven players who hoped to get off on the first round of the National public parks tennis tournament here waited for a drying sun today to put the courts into condition.

The same schedule which was rained out yesterday was in effect today providing the courts were dry enough to begin play in the afternoon.

With plenty of time to spend, the players and officials of the tournament have tentatively formed an organization to be known as the National Public Parks Tennis Association, which they said was designed to permanently sponsor the annual competition.

M'KAY SETS PRO TOURNEY PACE

Dave McKay, professional at the Pittsburgh Field Club, was leading the field in the first 18-hole round of the 36-hole United States Rubber Company's annual open tournament at the South Hills Country Club today. McKay scored a 73. Charley Manning of the Shannopin Country Club was second with a 75, and George Underwood, of the Alcoma Country Club third, 76. Other scores included: Peter Walsh, Greenville, 77; Lambert Flynn, Stanton Heights, 78; Horace Brand, unattached, 79; Lader Jewett, 79, and Joe Corsello, 79.

TILDEN AVOIDS FRENCH ACES

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—There will be no further episodes in the eternal vendetta involving our Mr. Tilden and members of the French Davis Cup team until the challenge round for the international trophy comes down to a decision at Philadelphia next month, if you care to accept a tip that came today over the sacred doormat of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. It was not specified whether the issue would be avoided by Tilden or by the French, in toto; merely that a meeting on any courts, except those of the challenge round, was rather unlikely.

Tilden is entered in the annual Meadow Club's singles now in progress at Southampton, L. I., so are Rene LaCoste and other members of the French team. But the tip says that, in the event that Tilden finally finds himself faced by one of the Gallic invaders, "something" will happen to prevent the match from taking place.

If the alleged ukase was laid down by the Tennis Association, it obviously constitutes a studied attempt to conserve Tilden or conserve the gate receipts for the challenge round, or both.

The conservation of Tilden is, of course, important. It is, in fact, almost as important as the gate receipts themselves.

SOUDERS TO PILOT CAR IN EUROPEAN GRAND PRIX

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—George Souders, former Purdue student who won the annual 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway last May 30, will drive his prize-winning Deusenburg in the European speed classic, the Grand Prix, to be held September 4 at Monza, Italy, it has been learned.

Souders, who is leading in points for the 1927 race drivers' championship, has obtained permission of the American Automobile Association to enter the Monza race, which will be for 600 kilometers or 375 miles.

Earl Cooper of Detroit and Peter Kreis are other American drivers who have entered the race.

WAITING FOR THE CUBS TO CRACK

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

ONE of the leading indoor pastimes these days is waiting for the Cubs to crack.

The fans can't understand how the Chicago club can remain in the thick of the fight for the National League pennant with what appears to be a makeshift club aside from its strong pitching staff and a heady, hustling manager in Joe McCarthy.

At this writing, the Cubs are three and one-half games ahead of our Pirates, the second-place club. The race all season has been between this pair, with the World's Champion St. Louis Cardinals next.

Perhaps the Cubs will not crack. They may continue their inspired playing right down the home stretch and under the wire.

In the meantime, the grandstand managers might do well to give them a little credit instead of sitting back and wondering what is making them go and waiting for them to crack.

FOOTBALL AND THE RULES CHANGES.

THIS is an unseasonable time to be writing of football, yet it will be less than a month before the college and high school squads will be out on the practice fields booting the oval about.

Which thought brings up the fact that there will be some interesting experiments this fall with the altered rules, which have come in for considerable criticism. In the main, they protect the receiver of punts on fumbles, allow for freer use of the lateral pass and restrict the shift.

Glenn (Pop) Warner, former Pitt coach, who holds a warm spot in the hearts of the local fans, is one of those who do not find fault with the altered code. Rather, he is heartily in accord with the changes sponsored by the rules committee. He had a chance to work out the game as it will be played this fall during spring practice at Leland Stanford University and the other day went on record as placing his stamp of approval on the new order of things.

Warner says a much better game for the public will result. It will be a more open game, with the ball oftener exposed where the fans can see it. And anything that leans toward the spectacular will be welcomed, for the thrills are what lure the gridiron fanatics to the combats.

Los Angeles Women Golfers Plan Own Club

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9—(AP.)—Women golfers of Los Angeles today planned their own golf club where there would be no impatient men players waiting for slow moving feminine foursomes.

Announcement of plans for the club were made with the sale of a 200-acre site in the San Fernando valley by Harold G. Ferguson. Ferguson said the consideration was approximately $300,000. Tentative plans call for the expenditure of $200,000 on clubhouse and improvements including an 18-hole course.

LINCOLN GIANTS BOAST FINE PITCHING STAFF

The Lincoln Giants of New York who will come to Pittsburgh for a three-game series with the Homestead Grays at Forbes Field—one game Friday evening and a double-header on Saturday afternoon—have three pitchers who possess extraordinary records. They are Rector, Chalmers and Gisentaner.

The Grays play at Universal this evening. Tomorrow they play at Crucible. They were originally scheduled at Filbert Mine on this date but torrential rains in the Uniontown district flooded the Filbert field necessitating a change of the game to the Crucible diamond. Thursday the Grays make their first appearance at Crafton.

SPORTS COMMENT

By James J. Long

ADMITTEDLY, those Giants have been stepping along at a lively pace during the last few weeks, gradually fattening their percentage, gaining on the leaders and causing not a little uneasiness among rival pennant aspirants who had considered them just about out of the debate.

But in spite of all that, they have not been overly impressive in the present series at Forbes Field as real pennant possibilities. Local fans concede that they have a great deal of strength, even though the Pirates have beaten them five times in seven games on their own grounds, but that strength does not appear sufficient to carry them over the finish line ahead of the pack on October 2.

THE New York pitching is none too steady nor certain in the first place, but the greatest weakness appears to exist behind the bat.

No doubt that is one reason why the pitching appears not to measure up to pennant requirements.

In baseball it is often the case that the pitching can be no better than the catching. Star hurlers like Alexander, Kremer, Johnson, Vance and others can frequently get by with an inferior receiver because of their own greatness and pitching smartness, but even in such cases a blundering backstop may ruin their games by doing the wrong thing at a critical moment.

A baseball maxim of the old days that often applies in the modern sport is that the safest way to size up a team's chances for victory in any particular game is to observe who is catching and not who is pitching.

It is the catcher who really runs the game. He has more control over it than any other player on the team. He has the entire field of play in front of him, and must shape and direct the whole plan of defense. It is his job to guess out what the opposition is going to try and then break it up. He must be trying all the time to outsmart the enemy.

UNLESS a backstop can do all these things he cannot be rated a great catcher. Smothering foul flies, fielding taps in front of the plate, pegging to bases and such items are only fundamentals in the catching art.

So it follows that the "old noodle" is the greatest of all requirements behind the plate.

There are catchers who are strong hitters, good throwers and fairly fast runners, but what good is a maskman to a pennant seeking club if he can hit .300 but can't think .012?

If he cannot handle hurlers properly and smartly, outguess the enemy and take advantage of all its weaknesses, the pitching is bound to be far less effective than it would be with a wise head wearing the mask.

THAT'S the main obstacle in the path of the Giants. Johnny Cummings, the North Side boy, is still comparatively inexperienced and has been prevented by injuries from getting as much work as he should get in order to pick up the necessary knowledge of big league play.

Al Devormer, though he had a previous trial in the majors, has not shown up as well as he gave promise of showing on the strength of his work in the minors last year.

Zack Taylor is a good hitter and mechanical catcher, but has been found wanting several times in smart play and quick action, the coordination of brain and muscle.

The pitching depends upon the quality of catching, as far as getting winning results is concerned, and if the right kind of pitching isn't there, any club's chances for reaching the peak are not going to be very remote.

LET your memory drift back over the seasons that have passed and you will recall that every great club had also a great catcher.

The Giants of old had Buck Ewing; the three-time champions of Baltimore, the immortal Orioles, had Wilbert Robinson; the Boston Nationals of the '90s had Marty Bergen, Pat Moran and Charley Ganzel; the Boston Redsox in their heyday had Bill Carrigan; the Athletics had Thomas and Wally Schang; the Pirates had Chief Zimmer and Jack O'Connor and later George Gibson; the Cubs had Johnny Kling; the White Sox had Ray Schalk, the Braves had Hank Gowdy and so on down the line.

High-class catching is essential in the making of a champion ball club.

IT WAS a slide that started Kiki Cuyler's troubles on the Pittsburgh club this year, and it was a failure to slide that climaxed them the other day when Manager Bush plastered a fine of $50 on him.

When Cuyler slid into a base during a game with the Cardinals here on May 28, a tendon in one of his feet was so severely torn and wrenched that he was out of commission for several weeks. "Ki" had been going at a great clip before he was injured, but since that mishap and its developments he has not been the same ball player.

His spirit was hurt when he was sent to another field upon his return to duty and Lloyd Waner was kept in center, Cuyler evidently feeling that this would make it look as if he had been put back in the lineup only as a substitute. He believed that he could not play any other field as well as he could play center, but the younger Waner was going so well in the middle garden that he could not be moved. On top of that "Ki" continued to balk at being placed second in the batting order, and, naturally, in that state of double dissatisfaction, he has fallen short of his old form.

Under the circumstances it is not surprising that last winter's rumors that Cuyler would be used in a trade by the Pittsburgh club are being revived. Of course, nothing can be done in that direction until after the 1927 season, but this time the rumors may not prove as groundless as they did a year ago.

DONIE BUSH CRITICIZED FOR HIS ACTION

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE fining of Outfielder Hazen (Ki) Cuyler by the Pirate management for his failure to slide into second in Saturday's game with the Giants was a big subject for comment among baseball fans today, the members of the New York and Pittsburgh clubs getting into the discussion deeply. In view of the strained relations, the New York team, together with many other clubs, would like to obtain Cuyler, but the trading season for this year is passed.

That Cuyler was penalized and punished for trying to do something smart was the argument of one group, which cites that the fleet runner drew the penalty for the wrong play. The player, it was argued, really did falter later in the game in trying to take an extra base on an overthrow, inasmuch as his club was seven runs behind. A move of this kind is always considered bad baseball where there is a doubt as to whether he shall reach the base in question.

Cuyler himself states that he was trying to get in line with a throw that might have completed a double when he stood up as he ran into second on Paul Waner's grounder.

KIKI'S SIDE OF STORY.

"I figured that a force play would be made on me when Paul bounded to Bill Terry," said Cuyler this morning. "As I ran I tried to stay in line with what I thought would be Jackson's throw to first to make a double. By doing this he would have to throw the ball around me and he probably would lose enough time to miss the double. Terry's throw reached Jackson a bit low and I hit the bag a moment later, but I was running and stepped beyond the sack.

"But I certainly think it was an injustice to me to have anybody say or hint that I was not trying. Ever since I have been in baseball I have taken the best kind of care of myself so that I could always be at top speed on the ball field.

"If there was any censure coming to me it should have been on the later play, when I tried to reach third when Devormer threw wide to first. I will admit that this was not good baseball, but I was putting forth every effort in me to reach third. The last glimpse I had of the rolling ball led me to believe that I would get to the third sack ahead of it, but I know that playing safe would have been better baseball.

"The point I want to stress has to do with lack of effort. Nobody can say that I have not always given my best in baseball."

EXPERIENCE WINS

MRS. MOLLA MALLORY. MISS HELEN JACOBS.

These two stars of the tennis court met recently in the final round of the Seabright (N. J.) tournament and Mrs. Mallory, who was a star before the young California girl was old enough to hold a racquet, triumphed by the scores of 6-2, 1-6, 6-2. Miss Jacobs, however, is a comer and her sponsors claim she one day will attain the same prominence as that other Helen of California—the celebrated Miss Wills.

CARRIGAN'S NINE COPS SIXTH IN ROW

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

THE fast-traveling Red Sox have run their winning streak to six games. The rejuvenated Bostonians gained another victory in their drive to climb out of the American League cellar by jolting the Detroit Tigers yesterday, 3-2. A home run by Harry Heilmann and doubles by Warner and Gehringer provided the Detroit runs. Boston put over the winning tally in the third when Myer scored from first as Regan's grounder rolled through Gehringer to the outfield.

Shaute scattered the seven hits he allowed Washington and Cleveland won easily, 6 to 1. Walter Johnson held the Indians scoreless for the first five innings and then weakened.

No other games were played in either the American or National League. Rain and wet grounds forced the postponement of five contests.

CUBS FAR IN FRONT

The Chicago Cubs remained three and one-half games ahead in the National League race and today had a double-header planned with the Brooklyn Dodgers, from whom they have won 12 of 13 games played. Joe McCarthy's team is beginning to look like the strongest team in the race. The Cubs' chances, however, probably will be decided on their next road trip. If the team can return to Chicago still in first place it will have the drop on its competitors, as Chicago will play 20 of its last 26 games at home. The showing of the Cubs at home is unsurpassed in the National League.

By a freak in the schedules, New York will be without major league baseball for two days. The Yankees have left on their third and final western tour; Brooklyn is at Chicago and the Giants do not open up their home stand until Thursday. The Yankees will be gone for 22 days, returning to New York August 31 for a game with the Red Sox.

The Hugmen hit out for the road in an enviable position. Even though Washington should continue its present .600 gait through the remainder of the season and the Yankees win only 15 of their remaining 47 contests, the best the Senators could do would be to tie for first place.

CITY, COUNTY GOLFERS PLAY

The Department of Public Works and other city officials are combating of the Department of Public Works of Allegheny county in their annual golf match over the difficult links of the St. Clair Country Club this afternoon. The city captured the last match, and the county is out for sweet revenge. Director Edward G. Lang is captain of the city squad of 11 men, and Director Norman F. Brown is leading the county, and they are paired.

Councilman Charles Anderson is playing with Edward M. Kenna; Councilman R. J. Allderdice is competing in company of W. C. Lyle; Councilman Robert Garland and Edward Moriarity are matched; Fred W. Lyon and L. G. Molyneaux are paired; Tom Reed and J. A. Fugassi drove off together; H. Stewart Dunn and S. R. Conwell are linked; J. J. Cronk is playing with W. K. Allen; James Hobson is accompanying George Snodgrass; J. B. Richards and E. B. Sargent are together, while Henry F. Ruoff and W. H. Dithrich are having a battle.

Following the tournament, the teams will gather about the festive board for their annual banquet.

Charles M. Reppert, chief engineer of the city Department of Public Works; William A. Fox, division engineer; Edward Griffith, and Harry G. Lewis will serve as referees.

KISH TO START LONG GRIND NEXT SATURDAY

Mike Kish, Port Vue long distance runner, will start his non-stop marathon race from Pittsburgh to Cleveland Saturday at 12:30 o'clock. Kish will be accompanied by several judges. He expects to arrive in Cleveland the following morning.

Kish has quite a reputation for long distance runs. His original plans called for a race from Pittsburgh to Chicago, but he has decided to try the Pittsburgh-to-Cleveland run before tackling the longer event.

Barnhart Back in Buc Lineup Today

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

When the Pirates renewed their feud with the Giants at Forbes Field this afternoon Clyde Barnhart was back in left field, Chester Nichols, youthful pitcher of much promise, on his way back to New Haven and Ki Cuyler, outfield star who was fined $50 for failing to slide Saturday, back on the bench.

Hope that Barnhart's explosive bat will shake the Pirates loose from their slump prompted Manager Donie Bush to make the outfield shift. Many are of the opinion that a desire to further penalize Cuyler also was a factor in the move. Lloyd Waner was shifted to middle field and led off. Grantham, relieving Joe Harris at first, followed Lloyd and Barnhart occupied the sixth notch in the batting order.

Nichols was returned yesterday to his first love, the New Haven Club in the Eastern League. The young slab star goes under an optional agreement and it is probable that he will be reclaimed later in the year. An injured foot kept Nichols out of action for a lengthy period and it is the opinion of Pirate officials that the opportunity to take a regular turn on the mound will be of great benefit to him. Nichols left last night for Hartford, where he will report to the New Haven management.

The Cubs did not complete their game with the Dodgers yesterday so there was no change in the standings of the various flag contenders. The Bruins were one down to the Dodgers in the second frame when rain spoiled the battle. The Bears, however, still enjoy a lead of three and one-half games.

At today's meeting of the Pirates Manager Bush laid down the law in regard to the remaining games on the Pittsburgh card. More than one member of the Pirates has been guilty of dull actions in the lineup while otherse have acted as if they would just as soon be on the bench as in the battle.

The Giants are playing a snappy grade of ball. They have won 14 out of their last 21 games and on the present jaunt have copped the laurel seven times in 10 games.

The young star who last year piloted the St. Louis Cardinals to the world's championship of baseball is here with the New York Giants as the major drawing card of John McGraw's outfit. At the Polo Grounds in New York he is the club's chief hope as a counter-attraction to Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig of the Yankees. He is a dangerous batter when in his right stride and a colorful player and has proved a real box office magnet for his new owners.

GAMBLING PROHIBITED AT CLEVELAND TRACK

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A "no gambling" policy, promised by officials of the track and insisted upon by Sheriff Edward Hanratty, was in vogue at North Randall track today where the Grand Circuit races were to get under way for two weeks.

The Grand Circuit meeting is the first program of horse racing held in the county this season, as all previous race meetings were canceled when Sheriff Hanratty announced that betting would not be tolerated.

H. K. Devereaux, head of the track, said that speculation of no kind would be permitted, and upon that promise Sheriff Hanratty decided that he would not station deputies at the track to see that his orders are carried out.

Cuyler Has Aversion To Batting in Second Place

Hazen Cuyler's aversion to the second notch in the Pirate batting order stands out in the development of the case which climaxed as he was fined. Cuyler insists that he is not able to do his best batting in the second notch and after a certain game in Cincinnati many weeks ago had an open argument in the clubhouse with Manager Bush.

Cuyler informed his boss that in several attempts to bat second he went into slumps. Bush, however, saw Cuyler of more value in the second position and refused to move him.

"Personally, Cuyler is a great boy and I am sorry he has seen fit to act that way," Bush said recently in discussing Kiki's case.

The annual track and field meet and field day under the auspices of the Philadelphia Company and affiliated corporations on Saturday afternoon at Schenley Oval will be one of the biggest affairs of the kind ever held in this city.

The entry list closed last Saturday with more than 300 individuals in line for the closed events, and more than 200 in the open Amateur Athletic Union contests.

There are 20 entries in the modified marathon race from the Philadelphia Company building in Sixth avenue to the oval.

LENGLEN BANNED FROM OLYMPICS

PARIS, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Any hope that Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen may have had of figuring in the tennis competitions during next year's Olympic games, were dispelled last night by the decision of the executive subcommittee of the International Olympic committee.

The sub-committee stated that it was bound to enforce the qualification rules established by the Olympic congress at Prague, Czechoslovakia, in 1922, which make it impossible for tennis professionals, even when requalified as amateurs, to play in an Olympiad.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Buffalo—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, defeated Benny Ross (12).

At Troy, N. Y.—Harry Martone, Jersey City, won by technical knockout over Eddie Dempsey, Philadelphia, (12). Mickey Romano, Jersey City, defeated K. O. Sweeney, Utica, (10).

At New York—Jim Maloney-Jamaica Kid bout postponed, rain; to be fought Friday.

At Newark, O.—Homer Ronan knocked out Johnny Hewitt, (7).

By Havey Boyle

HAVEY BOYLE.

THE $50 fine imposed on Hazen Cuyler was a torch bringing out full light a strange case of incompatibility. He was fined $50, as you know, for bad baserunning in the first game against the Giants. This fine has been a long time coming. Quite a few weeks ago Donie Bush, Pirate manager, and Cuyler had very hot words over opposing views.

Cuyler right now is in that sad state of mind where he imagines everything he does is viewed with evil eye by his boss. To make matters worse, Bush has been moving gradually to a viewpoint which gives him the notion Cuyler is in studied rebellions.

A HISTORY of this case involving one of the league's best outfielders serving a potential pennant winner and involving a new manager in the National League is of national baseball interest.

A part of the trouble had its genesis when Donie Bush told Cuyler to bat second. This was a role not to the liking of Cuyler. His best success had been attained in the third notch. A fixed idea set upon Cuyler, this being the firm conviction that he would be of no use to his club or to himself in the second notch.

There followed a series of conferences, in one of which Cuyler almost flatly refused to bat second.

LATER, there were other differences. In Philadelphia Cuyler made a poor throw to third that aroused Bushian anger and warm words. On top of this there was born in the brain of Cuyler a feeling that playing left field was not so beneficial to him and the team as playing center. The sun field, which in Forbes Field is left field, was held by Cuyler to be detrimental to his batting eye. He was moved to center.

Then on Saturday Cuyler put a little gasoline to the smouldering fire by over-running second when a good slide would have allowed him to be called safe. Then came the $50 fine.

THERE may be more than just the fine coming from all this. It would not surprise fans here to learn next winter of Cuyler's transfer from the Pirates.

His eventual trading will not be traced just to affairs of this season when unfortunately he found himself differing with Manager Bush.

Those who know Barney Dreyfuss and his methods of baseball proprietorship will believe that Cuyler's obstinacy in signing a contract for one year will be a contributing factor to his transfer.

OCCASIONALLY, in contractual matters a ball player scores a decision over the local owner and still manages to stay on, but quite often Mr. Dreyfuss is of a mind, when forced to agree to terms stipulated by the party of the second part, to see that the party of the second part has a chance to play in some other ball yard.

It is not much of a secret that Mr. Dreyfuss has never considered Cuyler as valuable as most of the fans have held him to be.

A part of this may be attributed to shortcomings Mr. Dreyfuss sees on the field and a part, perhaps, from the fact that once Cuyler played the tune and Mr. Dreyfuss reluctantly danced.

IN this triangular affair shrewd fans will be neutral and await developments.

The history of this case, especially that side concerning Cuyler and Bush, puts Cuyler in an unfavorable light, yet those who understand human nature and who have an eye for all sides, will not be in a hurry to condemn Cuyler.

For instance, in his plea to play center instead of left, I believe he was absolutely correct. His rightful place is center, where his strong arm is of more use to the club than the less renowned arm of Lloyd Waner. And if Lloyd Waner suffered no mental or physical effect in left, while Cuyler did or imagined he did, which is just the same, then perhaps Donie should have given Cuyler the center field job without any argument.

Too, it can be said for Cuyler, in spite of this incompatibility, that he always keeps in fine physical condition, being in this equal to Traynor and Cronin and being superior to every other man on the club. This quality is not to be taken lightly.

THROUGH all this trouble, a spy tells this department, there is not the remotest idea in the mind of either Bush or Cuyler that the trouble comes from any personal animosity. It is simply a case of two men striving for a common goal—the pennant—but each holding opposite views on the best methods, particularly those methods involving Cuyler.

Of course, the $50 fine and the censure which it implies may mar the impersonal spirit which has marked the controversy, but since both Cuyler and Bush are likeable, and withal, reasonable fellows, the open break may help purge the atmosphere of recent misunderstandings.

The case is unique in that while it was expected Bush might find incompatible souls on the Pirates, it was never expected that Cuyler would be one of them.

One reason for this trouble is that Cuyler has not been able to find his usual talent at his command this season. He is enjoying a sub-normal season in batting and in driving in runs. Added to this is the fact that the Pirates generally have been playing wretchedly enough to make the usually good-humored Bush sharp, critical.

IT is an interesting conflict of two characters, both having much to commend them. Bush is not one to hold anything against an erring player, but Cuyler, who cannot possibly see the case as others see it, may not be so ready to let bygones be bygones. I hesitate to advise him, either, because I can't possibly feel the heat that is surging through him now. He must think it out for himself and act accordingly.

Sale Opens Next Week

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The exact spot where Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey will meet for the world heavyweight championship has been chosen—on the 50-yard line of the football gridiron of Soldiers Field. The site is on a line with the colonnades atop the wing sections of the horseshoe and nearer to the south end of the stadium where the curve of the horseshoe joins the two wings.

Tex Rickard, George F. Getz, the millionaire coal man who is acting as promoter, Chairman John C. Righeimer, of the State Athletic Commission, and George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the South Park Board, picked the location for the ring yesterday in outlining the plans for the erection of some 10,000 ringside and bleacher seats.

BLEACHER SECTION.

Sloping up from the ring to the open northern end of the stadium will be built an enormous bleacher section, 40 feet above ground at the back row. Inside the row of boxes on the inner edge of the field rows of seats will be placed on the ground to the inner edge of the running track bordering the gridiron.

With these arrangements concluded, Rickard returned to New York for the Delaney-Uzcudun fight Thursday night and left Getz to select a downtown location for a ticket headquarters. The pasteboards will be ready to go on sale when Rickard returns the latter part of the week.

Righeimer promised Rickard and Getz the boxing commission would approve the ticket prices, the date and other details at their weekly meeting this afternoon.

When Rickard returns the managers of the two boxers are expected to accompany him to select training camp sites. Dempsey sent word to Rickard yesterday that he desired privacy at his camp, and would reach here to start training by August 19. The former champion said that if his wishes are followed his training camp will be closed to everyone except newspaper correspondents and persons having business there.

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—Jack Dempsey, accompanied by his wife, Estelle Taylor, the film actress, will leave for the East Sunday night to start intensive training for his bout with Gene Tunney at Chicago on September 22.

Dempsey will travel on the Union Pacific, stopping off a day in Salt Lake City to see his mother, and stopping three hours in Denver, from where he will proceed direct to Chicago. Training quarters will be selected by Leo Flynn, probably in or near Chicago.

Mrs. Dempsey will be accompanied by a nurse, according to present plans. She is convalescing from a severe illness and her physician has forbidden interviews en route.

"Flash" is determined to run that opinion down.

IT has been my observation, especially in connection with the manly art of scrambling ears, that when business and sentiment hook up sentiment generally gets a terrible mauling. The Dempsey-Sharkey affair is one of the few instances of sentiment coming out on top.

Much of the money that was wagered on Mr. Dempsey was sentimental money. It was wagered against the law of the game that they don't come back, against Mr. Dempsey's deplorable showing with Mr. Tunney a year ago, against the adage that youth must be served, against the rumors of an injured arm and against the tales from Saratoga that Mr. Dempsey looked very sad in training.

The professional, business money went on the terrible Sharkey man, and there was always enough of that to outweigh the sentimental dough and keep the terrible Sharkey man at least a point ahead of Mr. Dempsey in the betting up to the bell. The sentimental money will probably still follow Mr. Dempsey into Chicago, but so far not enough of it has appeared to shorten up Mr. Tunney's opening price of 2 to 1.

Somehow I never could figure any man 2 to 1 over another man in these expositions of the manly art of scrambling ears, where both men are reasonably close together in the matter of class. I cannot see how a year's lay-off can have benefited Mr. Tunney, and the only explanation I can offer for the price is that the business money is indignant over its hammering at the hands of sentiment in the Dempsey-Sharkey affair, and is trying to make Mr. Dempsey appear a ridiculous contender.

For, you know, business money can get mad, and see red, and lose its perspective, just the same as sentimental money.

TED LEWIS KAYOS TED MOORE

By HENRY CAVENDISH.

Universal Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Ted (Kid) Lewis, former middleweight boxing champion of the world, had an unofficial bout with Ted Moore, the famous middleweight fighter, in a Leicester Square restaurant recently, and, according to the Daily Express, Moore finally was brought to by the administration of brandy and soda.

Kid Lewis, who has been featherweight, welterweight and cruiserweight champion of England, was quite frank in discussing his "K. O." of Moore, explaining afterwards:

"There had been trouble for some time between Ted and myself. Harry Levine, his manager, has been crying up his merits a lot for several weeks.

"I met Levine the other day, and in the course of conversation he told me he thought Moore was the best boxer of his weight in England. I replied that in my opinion Moore was 'punch-drunk,' that is to say, that he had taken so much punishment that he could no longer feel it, and his nerves were practically gone.

"I never intended the remark to be repeated, of course, but it evidently was, because when I entered the restaurant in Leicester Square with a friend, Moore, who was sitting at a table close to mine, looked daggers at me.

"I do not much like ill-feeling, so I went up to Moore and asked him what was the matter. He said to me, 'I am told that you have said I was punch-drunk. If you ever say that again I will spit in your eye.'

"That remark was too much for me, and I squared off and struck him on the chin, laying him out at once.

"Waiters rushed to Moore's assistance and revived him with water and brandy, and he eventually left the restaurant.

"I followed him outside to see if he wanted to give me tit for tat, but as he was talking to a friend of mine I decided to let the matter drop."

CUYLER

allowed to tamper with other players, but we certainly could use Cuyler," said one of the Giants when he learned that Cuyler had been fined. This New Yorker, who is quite noted, thinks that Cuyler is a smart baserunner and a fine performer in every way. The fact that Cuyler led the league in stolen bases last season, together with his lead in the same department this year until he fractured his ankle in sliding into third, stands heavily in the player's favor as a baserunner.

Another point brought out in the penalty meted out to Cuyler has to do with behavior. As one player remarked, "A club does not have to have any rules to keep Cuyler straight; he is always in bed before the alloted time and he is absolutely free of habits that show up on other players on every club." Members of both the New York and Pittsburgh club aver that the fining of this sort of a player did not make for discipline.

It has been hinted that there are certain high-salaried stars on the Pittsburgh club who leave the lineup quite often on slender excuses. To state the facts correctly, it is true that Cuyler was anxious to get back into the lineup before his injury had entirely healed. Also it is recalled that he was hurt in a wild slide into third as the Pirates were winning their tenth straight victory in their big consecutive string some time ago. He was trying then.

LAGGARDS ON CLUB.

It might not be straying from the facts to mention that others who do not live up to the rules as well as Cuyler on the club are not fighting to get into the lineup at this critical time. There has been a dopey flavor to the play of others and no mention has been made of fines. Discipline always is to be desired on a ball club, but on this occasion it may be a bit late or ill-timed. The fact a few in the 26,000 crowd razzed Cuyler Saturday may have swayed the management in its decision.

When a club is losing games it is bound to be razzed. Players will be singled out and sometimes insulting language will be used by "low brows," but it should also be borne in mind that the preponderance of fans do not resort to jeering of the home team, or to calling people abusive names. The "disrespectful minority" is to be heard in all ball parks of the circuit.

SOCCER

By TOM BIRKS

HEIDELBERG, the national amateur soccer champion, probably will open its season with one of the crack Ohio teams if plans laid down by Manager Balsarini go through. The Green and Gold cracks have been building up throughout the summer months for the coming season with the national amateur cup as the prime objective.

Of course the new ruling in the district allowing players to sign with whom they please in the various competitions will help the national champions because if the talent on hand does not fit into the lineup other men can be obtained for the particular competition whether they play in the league or not.

Sunday's attempted meeting of the Miner's Keystone League probably wrote finish to the greatest soccer league ever organized in Western Pennsylvania. At least for this season, not because soccer is losing interest in this district, but because the Miner's League is just what it is called, an organization of miners and the industrial trouble found the players of former years who could come up to the standard that this league desires scattered all over the country. When teams like Cuddy, Carry, Morgan, Bridgeville and Cecil who have made soccer history in this end of the state cannot organize, the game is suffering and the passing of the old Keystone, that has catered to thousands of Sunday soccer enthusiasts is to be deplored.

The only team with a possible chance to function was Heidelberg with no prospects ahead, the national amateur champions decided to embrace other affiliations and rightly so. With a chance to represent this country at the Olympic games Heidelberg had to operate and in a league.

The Scottish Clan League will meet on Wednesday for its annual season and this particular meeting will decide just where that purely Saturday outfit will operate during the coming season.

With some of the outfits classed as likely members of the International League the Clan outfit is just as much up in the air as the Keystone.

The newly-formed Sunday League is embracing plenty of territory. Hermarville is a strong club, so is Pittsburgh and Heidelberg, but Mustard Hollow is a new outfit to local soccer.

There is a chance however that the three other clubs figured upon to close the loop will provide plenty of opposition to the big three. The Corinthians will probably strengthen their club of last season. Philip Hillen, Ivor Hopkins, Bobby Robinson and Harry Downs should make a good quartet of officials and everything should run along smoothly.

The personnel of the district league was changed at last night's meeting with Pittsburgh in the new Sunday league. However the Saturday loop should be very attractive. Unless the Clan League organizes this will be the only Saturday league playing this season.

PRINCE OF WALES TO SEE INTERNATIONAL POLO MEET

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales is expected to be among the thousands who will witness the international polo matches between the United States and England, starting September 3 at the Meadow Brook Club, in Westbury, N. Y.

The royal box is being completed at the field, which will have a seating capacity of more than 40,000 persons.

More than $260,000 for tickets has been subscribed for the international event, indicating the unprecedented concern over the resumption of the classic series. This amount has come entirely from polo players and clubs affiliated with the United States Polo Association, but hundreds of applications from all parts of the world are yet to be considered. The advance sale to the public opened today.

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

"WE'VE had a lot of trouble with our base running this summer which is one reason why we are not up higher in the race," said John McGraw of the Giants in a discussion with the writer on the mistakes that are apt to crop into baseball at all times.

It is said, and with much truth, that every player makes an error of omission occassionally, although I have never found an athlete who said that Honus Wagner was ever guilty of a false move. Honus, however, was an outstanding exception. For instance, his judgment of distance was so good that he most always reached a base whenever he started for the sack in question.

"It's a very bad thing for players to get nipped on the bases with nobody out," mused McGraw. The Giant leader contends that it is much better percentage to play safe rather than risk a putout.

THE Pirates have made their baserunning mistakes, yet when they are in their stride, they are the best baserunning team in the game. Cuyler was far in front of Frisch when he fractured his ankle, but he had to give up his leadership through absence from the game. Sprout Waner is a corking baserunner. Grantham ranks with the best in the sport, and few athletes have anything on Traynor in this connection.

With Hill, Kremer, Meadows, Aldridge, Miljus and Dawson all ready for slab duty it is natural to think the Pirates should move along at a good clip. Perhaps Earl Smith will be able to pep up the club, but Smith can't seem to get started. Earl was struck in the foot with a foul the other day just when he appeared to be ready to go to work.

Smith batted something like .350 last season. He is far below his form to date. Being a natural batter of the .300 class or better the odds would favor Earl to hit a streak at the plate. In 1925 Smith displayed a fine stunt of knocking George Grantham and other sprinters around the sacks on his hot drives. Grantham batted directly in front of Earl and the Ozark slugger gave the Arizona greyhound plenty of exercise.

BARNEY DREYFUSS, owner of the Pirates, upholds Donie Bush in the manager's action in putting a fine of $50 on Hazen Cuyler for his baserunning in Saturday's game. The big boss of the Freebooters has upheld every move that Bush has made since the season began, including the suspension of Johnny Morrison, who is still under the ban.

Morrison, by the way, is back in Kentucky. It is probable that other major league teams would be glad to have him, but the Pittsburgh directors think that Johnny's offense does not merit any such reward. In other words, Dreyfuss and Bush would prefer to send Johnny to a minor league.

The Pittsburgh players think that answer is that he was not. One of the parties to the argument believed he had been either knocked out or knocked down by a Pittsburgh boy in a bout on the North Side before he went east. Billy Corcoran, former promoter, for whom Blackburn boxed in all his bouts here, is authority for the statement that the Negro battler never was even knocked down in a Pittsburgh ring.

Morrison did not realize the seriousness of his mistake. At the same time, the Bushwhackers are sore at the Kentuckian for leaving the club in a lurch. Many double-headers were on the card at the time and the teammates of the suspended player think he might have saved a game or two had he been on the job for rescue work.

Arkansas Gas Deal On in New York

There was active bidding for the various fuel issues on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, but enough stock came out on the demand to hold prices very close to the levels prevailing at the close of the previous session. While no information has as yet reached the street in regard to the rumored negotiations involving Lone Star Gas, there was sufficient demand for the issue to maintain the price at a level within a fraction of its record high since listing. Arkansas Gas developed a little firmness in the early bidding but actual sales were unchanged.

Demand for bank shares continues to feature the market but not much stock appears to be for sale around present figures. Current bids for shares of most of the banks range anywhere from 5 to 20 points over the preceding official sale prices posted at the exchange.

Phillips Dividends.

Speculative opinion on the outcome of the Phillips Petroleum dividend meeting on schedule to be held next Monday was keenly divided. Those who are being guided by earnings naturally are disposed to be apprehensive, influenced by the disappointing character of the second-quarter results. But in other quarters it is maintained that the action of the stock foreshadows maintenance of the present rate.

Activity at Youngstown.

In the Youngstown district 59 sheet mills are active against 78 last week. Strip mill operations have declined moderately to 60 per cent of 18 tube mills, 14 are rolling. Independent steel companies are averaging 55 per cent and United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries 65 per cent, a decline from the previous week.

Cotton at New High.

The cotton market bounded up a full cent a pound during the early trading today on a tremendous wave of buying by traders who were unable to secure cotton yesterday owing to restriction. The whole list was at new highs for the season and while there was considerable profit-taking by fortunate longs, selling was readily taken and increased buying appeared on every little reaction.

Million Bales Shy.

The first government condition report on the 1927 cotton crop, issued yesterday, provided one of the most startling revelations of the year. As a sequence the cotton market, upon the resumption of trading, staged a most spectacular upturn on the rise in values, reaching the maximum swing of 200 points, or $10 a bale provided in the exchange rules as the limit for any one day's trading. The government's indicated yield was approximately 1,000,000 bales under estimates of private forecasters, and was the smallest indicated crop at this time for several years.

Expect Tonnage Increase.

Incoming business of the United States Steel Corporation in the first three weeks of July averaged 4,000 tons daily in excess of shipments. Based on these figures and allowing for the fact that the trend of orders was consistently upward through July, the unfilled tonnage as of the end of the month is expected to show an increase somewhat in excess of 100,000 tons. This would make unfilled orders on July 31 about 3,175,000 tons, against 3,053,000 at the close of June and 3,900,000 at the beginning of the year. Orders are still coming in at the same rate as late in July and August bookings are expected to show further gains. Reports on July tonnage will be issued at noon tomorrow.

Buying Madison Square.

Madison Square Garden shares are being accumulated because of success of the banking interests which have taken what is rumored to be full control of the garden. The banking interests have tied up in contracts the principal events at advantageous terms to the Madison Square Garden Company. They are planning to have a circuit of these amusement places throughout the United States, principally in Newark, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Buffalo. The bankers have tied up one of the principal events of the winter—hockey—which was a phenomenal success last year. This assures the garden a big return when in former years the place was idle. Hockey starts in October and runs until March and the attendance at principal events runs from 14,000 to 15,000 persons. Buying of the garden stock also is based on the successful management of the last big fight and the profits to be derived from the next championship meeting.

Lima Sells Off.

Lima Locomotive suffered a sharp reaction today due to selling induced by an official denial that American Locomotive is seeking control of the company. Rumors to the effect that American would take over Lima caused a rapid run up in the latter's shares Monday when the general market was under heavy pressure.

American Linseed Spurts.

American Linseed Oil was one of the strongest issues in the list today. The stock shot up five points on reports that the earnings statement for the first half of this year will show a wide bulge due to increased profits being piled up in the food products department.

Yellow Truck Plans.

The street hears that General Motors management plans to make its Yellow Truck division the largest manufacturer of commercial vehicles in the world. The division will turn out all classes of commercial cars, including a complete line of trucks ranging up to the heaviest capacities, and all types of busses. Split-up of the General Motors shares is still being discussed in trading circles with the general opinion being that they will be split two for one with the new shares on a $5 annual basis as against $3 "regular" rate at present.

RECOVERIES MARK DAY'S TRADING

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Impressive recoveries in prices took place in today's stock market, indicating that the corrective reaction under way since last Saturday had been completed.

Pools, influenced by a continuation of easy money rates and a plentiful supply of funds, marked up more than a dozen issues to new high levels. "Bear" traders, who had sold stocks freely in the last few days, stimulated the advance with their covering operations, particularly in Baldwin and other issues which command a premium in the "stock loan" crowd.

Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest centered in the further advance of $5 or more a bale in cotton futures and the establishment of a new high record for the year by sterling exchange.

Early selling of the rails is believed to have been inspired, in part, by the belief that July earnings statements would make the same unfavorable comparison with the corresponding month last year as the June statements. They rallied later, however, with the industrials, the demand centering in the seasoned dividend paying issues with attractive yields.

Bethlehem Steel was again a leader in the industrial section, crossing 61 to the highest price since 1923. A 5-point jump in American Linseed was predicated on the belief that the company was about to retire $1,000,000 in 6 per cent notes. Renewed strength and activity in General Motors was associated with prospects of special dividend action, and a possible stock split-up at Thursday's meeting of the board of directors.

Collins & Aikman, DuPont, Timken Roller Bearing and Case Threshing, also, were prominent in the early afternoon rally.

New York Bond Market

BUT THIS OPPORTUNITY WILL NOT LAST LONG.

Don't "grope in the dark," dreaming of extra money. You don't have to "pound the pavements," or go off on a "wild goose chase." Every ambitious person in the City of Pittsburgh would be amazed and glad to avail himself of this opportunity if he only knew the facts. YOU DON'T NEED EXPERIENCE AND YOU WON'T BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING. Briefly, the city's new administrative and expansion has made it necessary for us to open an entirely new department and has created an opportunity unparalleled for people desiring EXTRA WEEKLY INCOME. Work WILL NOT CONFLICT WITH PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. No SELLING. No Schooling. No Red Tape.

These positions can be filled during the spare hours (during day or evening) of mechanics, tradesmen, clerks, professional men and business men. Full time positions can be arranged for those desiring permanent work. ABSOLUTELY NO EXPERIENCE REQUIRED. FINANCIAL CO-OPERATION GIVEN from the start. You should earn NOT LESS than $44.10 PER WEEK from the moment your name is placed upon the company's rolls. Of the scores of happy workers recently employed, very few earn less than $50 per week and are working but one hour per day. Positions (part time or permanent) are EXTREMELY SIMPLE in pleasant surroundings and most congenial atmosphere.

Do not confuse this ad with another of similar wording for YOU WILL NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING AND YOU CAN EARN FROM THE MOMENT YOU START.

This is REAL. This is GENUINE. Here is an opportunity to earn a REAL BANK ACCOUNT during the summer months. The work is extremely simple and can be done by anyone of ordinary intelligence and we will make you understand and know you can do the work before we ask you to start.

You must understand this is an unusual opportunity. Come and get the facts. We require white applicants over 25 years of age AND EVERYONE will be given utmost consideration.

This ad will appear until WEDNESDAY EVENING and none will be considered after 8:30 O'CLOCK Wednesday evening. Make up your mind NOW to answer on time. NO APPLICANTS RECEIVED AT ANY OTHER HOUR. (Daylight saving time.)

APPLY WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 10, at 8:30 O'CLOCK, SUITE 601 CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUILDING, SEVENTH AVENUE AND SMITHFIELD STREET.

Notice! Remember this is an entirely new department and here is your opportunity to get a position in it. Scores of new applicants have been given employment during the evenings or after business hours and even the office boy earns $55 per week. Many of our employes who are employed otherwise during the daytime have bought new cars and have opened new bank accounts as a result of this wonderful extra income opportunity. You can answer other ads every day of the week, but—remember, you can only answer this ad Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

YOU SIMPLY CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT. Knowing how and why means EXTRA MONEY. Now if you really desire to open a REAL BANK ACCOUNT, DON'T MISS THIS. Do not answer this ad unless you are really sincere and anxious to earn an extra income. We will receive no applicants after 8:30 o'clock daylight saving time Wednesday evening, so make up your mind to answer on time. REGARDLESS OF PRESENT EMPLOYMENT, EVERYONE WILL BE GIVEN FULLEST CONSIDERATION AT ABOVE TIME, AND REMEMBER THE PLACE.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. Having been at once forced by the Club lead, Declarer decides to utilize the trumps in his hand by ruffing three more Clubs, rather than to attempt the trump finesse and play for the Diamonds to break.

Leonard Wood's Legacy To The American People

Leonard Wood died as he lived and did his work—simply, cheerfully, bravely, devotedly, for the cause, ''in the line of duty.'' For him as citizen, surgeon, soldier, statesman, patriot, leader of men, inspirer of youth, guide, philosopher and friend of dependent peoples

> ''—Rank means duty, various yet equal in its worth, done worthily,
> ''Command was service; humblest service done by willing and discerning souls was glory.''

Here was a typical young American who entered college without influential friends to help him, without any money except what he earned while he was studying. Yet by the time he came to middle age his talents and his splendid traits of character had won him success in three widely different fields of endeavor.

Two Presidents—one a Democrat, the other a Republican—called him as a young man to the White House to serve as ''the beloved physician.''

For more than 20 years his record in the Geronimo campaign, as first colonel of the Rough Riders, as military governor of Santiago, as governor of the Moro province, as commanding general of the Philippines, as chief of staff, as ''The Father of Plattsburgh,'' as the organizer and trainer of more than two divisions, one of which saw distinguished service in the great war, and the other of which was made ready for service, proves him to be the American Army's most brilliant soldier of his generation.

As the chief executive of Cuba and of the Philippines he has won the admiration of the world and brought new honor to the Stars and Stripes.

Leonard Wood rests from his labors today. History will do him justice. His fame is secure. The record of his noble life, so simply lived, will express the American spirit to generations yet to come.

But to the country that this truly great American loved and served so unselfishly Leonard Wood leaves a precious legacy in the causes in which he delighted to the very day of his death to spend and be spent.

The world will appraise the sincerity of what the American government and the American people say today about Leonard Wood by what they do for the causes indissolubly linked with his name, the cause of the common defense and the cause of American responsibility to dependent peoples under the American flag.

Uncle Sam Sheds Light on Servant Problem

Certain American women are asking that the immigration bars be let down to admit more alien women for domestic service.

The Federal Labor Department has countered by submitting a statistical study of the household service problem. It shows that the shortage of servants was worse before immigration was restricted than it is now.

Eighty years ago our grandmothers were complaining that they could not get and keep servants. Forty years ago our mothers said the same thing. Recently many employment agencies have reported more applicants than jobs.

Electricity has put so many labor-saving devices into the modern home that the demand for full-time, all-around servants has declined. We are slowly entering the era of housekeeping specialists.

When this is further advanced, to the point where housework is as thoroughly organized, as, say, painting or plumbing, we may expect less talk that good workers are scarce.

Possibly the chief trouble now arises in an effort to do 1927 housekeeping in the manner of 1840.

Here's a Freak Tenor!

Actually Doesn't Want to Sing.

Strange days are upon us. Weird happenings are recorded. Perhaps they are due to the sun spots. Who knows? Among the strangest of strange happenings lately is the suit, in Madrid, of the Metropolitan Opera Company against Miguel Fieta, Spanish tenor, for $19,000 because he refused to sing.

One wonders what sort of a tenor Senor Fieta really is. He breaks all precedents with this peculiar freak of temperament. It is usually necessary to sue or actually arrest tenors to make them stop singing. This is particularly true of professional tenors who live in apartment houses.

A tenor will usually burst into song with or without the slightest provocation. The problem up to now has been to keep him quiet. A tenor who refuses to sing is a rare bird, indeed.

Even Turks Are Heroic

Think of this Supreme Sacrifice.

[illegible] benighted and usually ignorant Turks are seeing the necessity of a national air fleet. They are going to have one if they have to hock their harems. The Turks may not be unusually bright in some matters, but they have good sense in regard to the value of airships.

Every package which should contain twenty cigarettes, sold in Turkey, contains only nineteen cigarettes. The twentieth one is withheld by the Government and will go toward building an air fleet. In a few years it is hoped to have several thousand airplanes.

When a Turk gives up his cigarette, he is making what is pretty near the supreme sacrifice.

4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.

New York Day by Day

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—This is a true story of what happened to a girl in New York. She came from a small town in Vermont—a high school graduate of respectable parents in ordinary circumstances and became a hat check girl in a large hotel.

It was not a job to her liking, but the only one at hand. Her nights were spent in loneliness in a cheap rooming house and her days in checking hats. In her rooming house—this was before prohibition—she met a young man.

He was uneducated and his job was that of a night bartender in a cafe. Propinquity developed a friendship flowering into love and in the end she married him. The marriage ran smoothly for awhile and then hit the rocks.

The girl wanted to get out but found she was chained to a hopeless clod and so cut adrift and studied stenography. After a preliminary period of job after job she became the secretary to a man of large affairs. She became indispensable to him in many ways.

He finally divorced his wife and married her. From a rooming house she was transported to a country home with servants, limousines, jewels and various baubles that go with wealth. She went abroad, had her regular seats to the opera and studied voice and languages.

Her drab life was blotted out by the new. That was seven years ago. Her name in recent years has been often seen among smart gatherings listed in newspapers. One evening recently they were motoring from the theater to their country place.

She had grown thirsty and suggested stopping at one of the roadhouses along the way for a lemonade. The chauffeur drew up at one and a captain led them to a table and took the order. A waiter brought it. She happened to glance at him. He was the ex-bartender and ex-husband. They did not speak.

Edna Ferber dropped into a department store the other day for her latest book to autograph for a friend.

"Have you 'Mother Knows Best' by Ferber?" she asked the clerk. In a sleepy fashion he shuffled off, coming back twice to ask the name.

On his last return he inquired: "Is it the author's last book?"

"I think it will be," replied Miss Ferber in weary resignation.

A new-fangled fame. A young man introduced to a lady in a cafe exclaimed: "Oh, yes, I know your face. I have seen it in the cigaret ads."

There is a story concerning one of those dignified, ritualistic households so peculiar to New York. Things move with automatic precision year in and year out—the afternoon bridge, dressing for dinner, the butler arriving with cocktails, the solemn meal, and so on. The young daughter of the household who has endured it all for a long while with patience disturbed the diners the other evening with an hysterical screech. "Heavens!" she exclaimed, "Father has different shirt-studs tonight."

High priests of the cinema palaces along the Rialto have their aeried lofts where they plan the next programs, entertain their friends and retire to wrinkle their classic brows in uplift for the masses. A reporter trailed one the other evening to his nest. He was in a gorgeous lavender robe with two-toned boots to match—eating a hot dog.

One impresario lives over his mammoth theater, and it is so arranged when company comes they may sit at a parlor window and view the performance going on downstairs.

More Truth Than Poetry

By S. E. KISER

Behind the Walls

A ROW of houses, all alike,
Each with three steps up to a door;
Each nail and beam and every spike
Like all the rest in frame or floor;
With not one deviating wall,
The last looms as the first was planned;
As if some mold had served for all
There in a row the houses stand.

BUT not all are alike within,
Some may be filled with cheer;
In some the walls may seem too thin
To halt remorse or baffle fear;
In some, perhaps, young mothers gaze
At babes asleep in dainty beds;
In some old men may count the days,
And sit and wait and nod their heads.

FAITH may make some sublime and bright,
And others may be filled with gloom;
To some men may return at night
Like culprits going to their doom;
In some of them may be deceit,
Or trust that never is betrayed,
In some hope may have been a cheat,
In others pride may be displayed.

THE many houses in a row,
And all alike, have much to hide;
Their windows are not made to show
What may be going on inside,
Some doors may open readily;
Some may be closed with lock or bar;
The fronts of some are all we see;
How much like people houses are.

The Clever Foreigners

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Whether it is a phase of inferiority complex or not, it is true that people are always suspicious of clever people. They resent their cleverness as an implied superiority, and the best means for creating a prejudice against them is to pretend that they are cleverer than ourselves.

It is a favorite pose of lawyers before a jury to discard all oratory or arts of reasoning and proclaim themselves as simply presenters of facts.

Those of the favorite arguments against doing business with other nations is to claim that they are much cleverer than ourselves, much more tricky and resourceful. Every nation wishes to consider itself as simple, faithful and trusting, and all others as wily and deceitful.

We heard a great deal about President Wilson's being taken in by Lloyd George and Clemenceau. We are now deluged with news to the effect that our representatives abroad in another conference have been cozened by the statesmen of other nations.

All this is pure bunk.

The Yanks are as clever as anybody and abundantly able to take care of themselves. If anybody leaves them with the heavy end of the stick to carry, they will have to be pretty sharp.

Suspicion of foreigners is all too common and a frequent cause of misunderstandings. It would be much better to be honest and frank ourselves, to lay the cards on the table and to trust other people to do the same. Much animosity and antagonism are aroused by suspicion. Trust hardly ever arouses anything but trust in return.

A man some time ago wrote a book entitled, ''My Neighbor Is Perfect.''

If everybody believed in his neighbor and trusted him we would have much less trouble than we do at present.

It is often said that the Golden Rule needs an amendment. It is not only necessary to do unto others as you would they should do unto you, but to be bold enough to take the first step in trust.

The idea of claiming that other statesmen or diplomats are wily and slippery, while our own are rugged and honest, is a vicious one, and all who help to spread it are not doing a very commendable job.

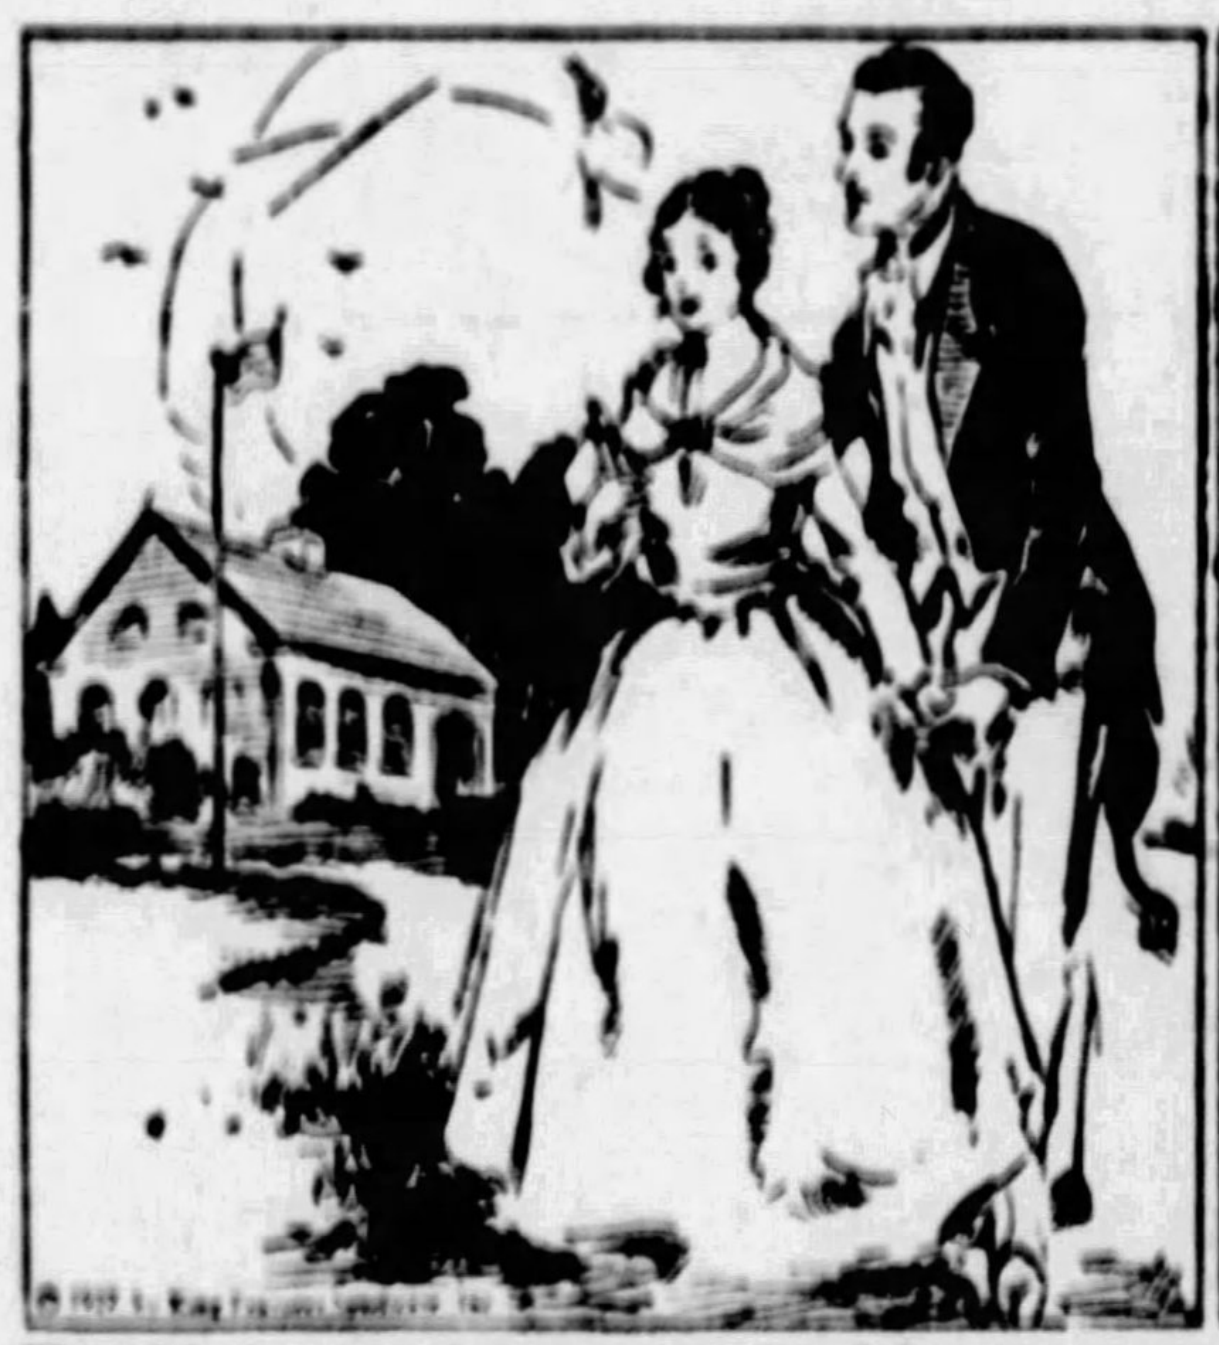
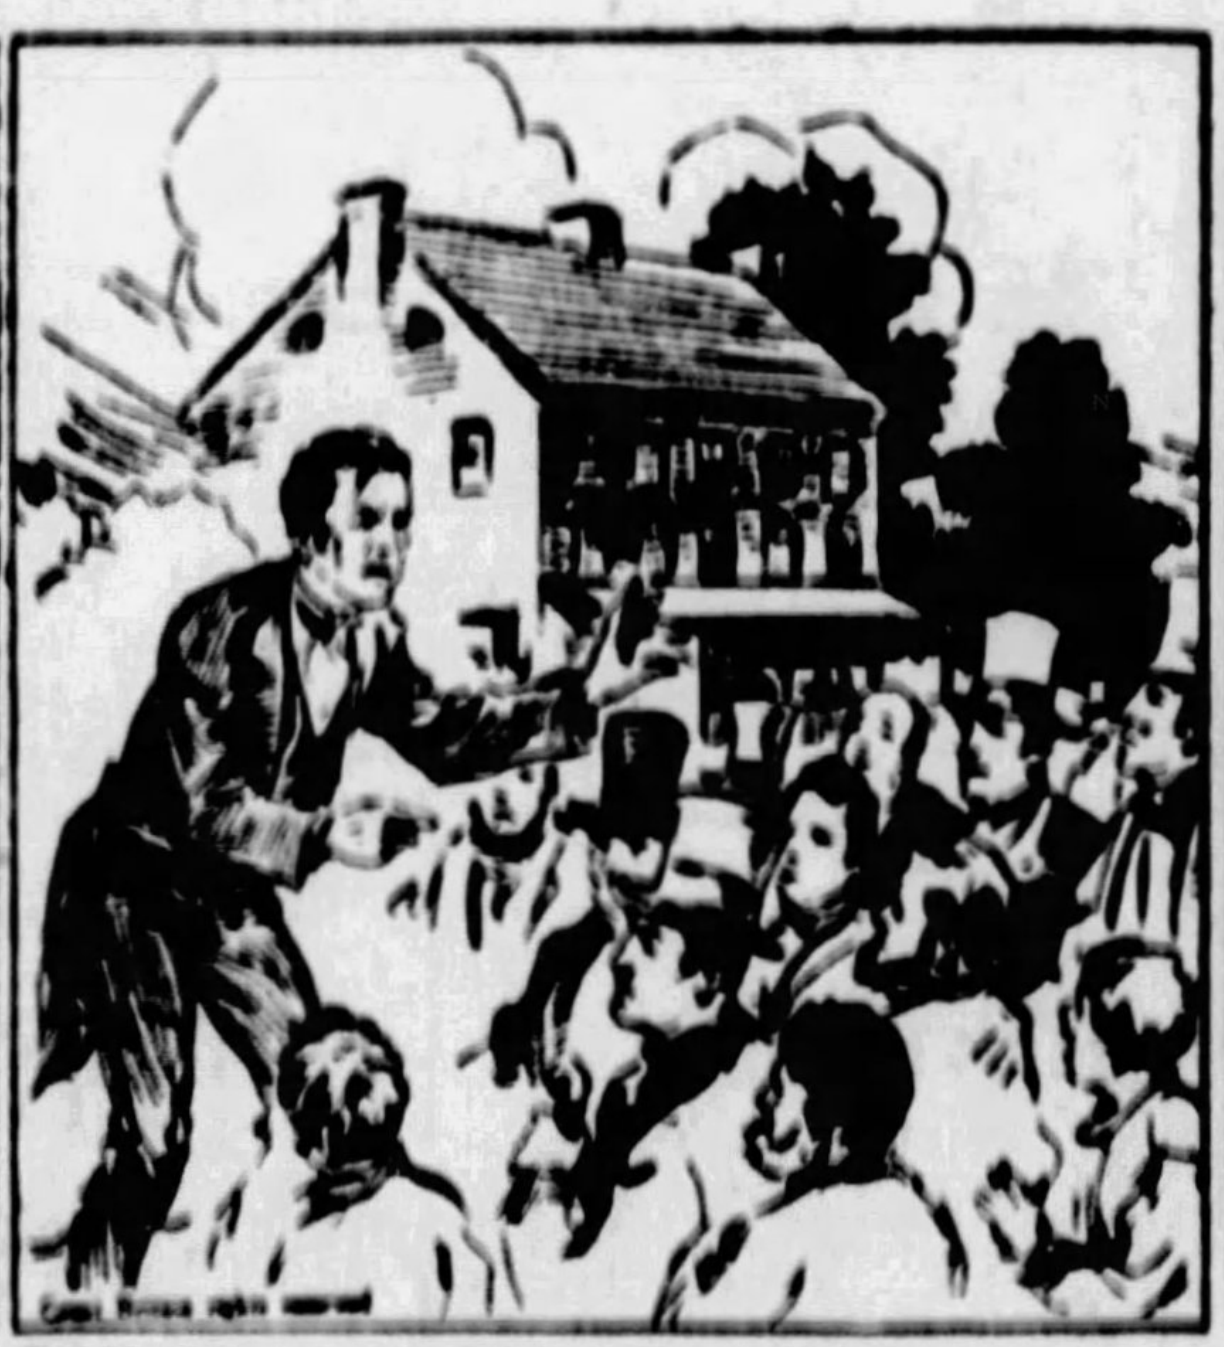
THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

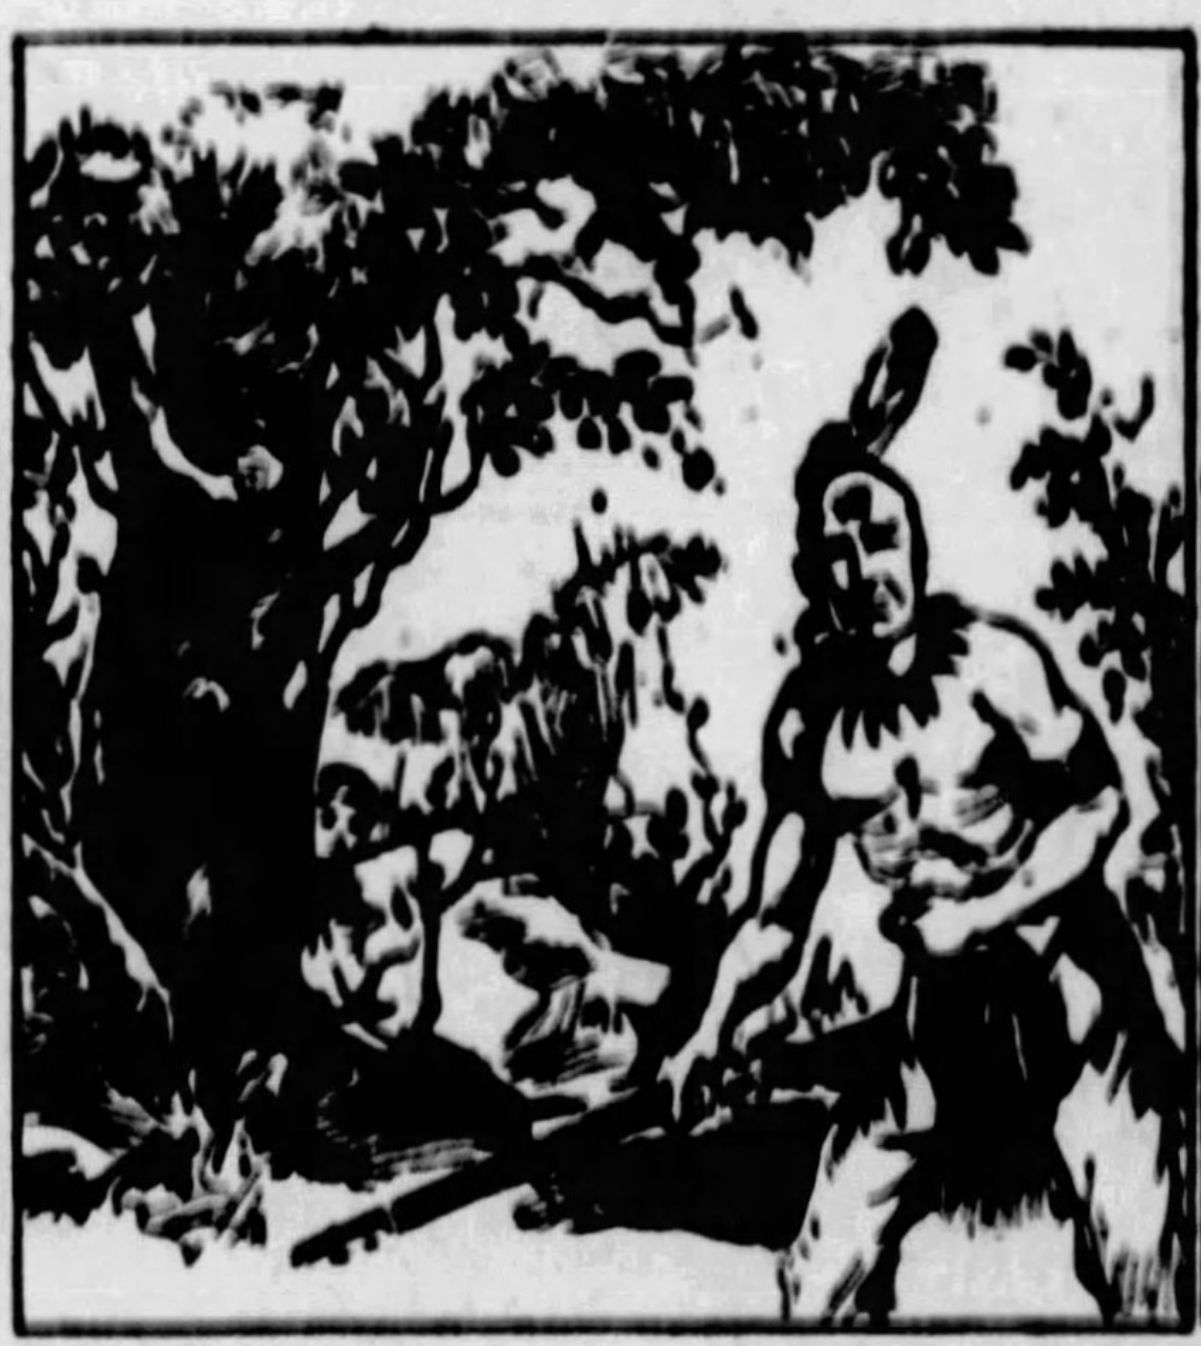
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



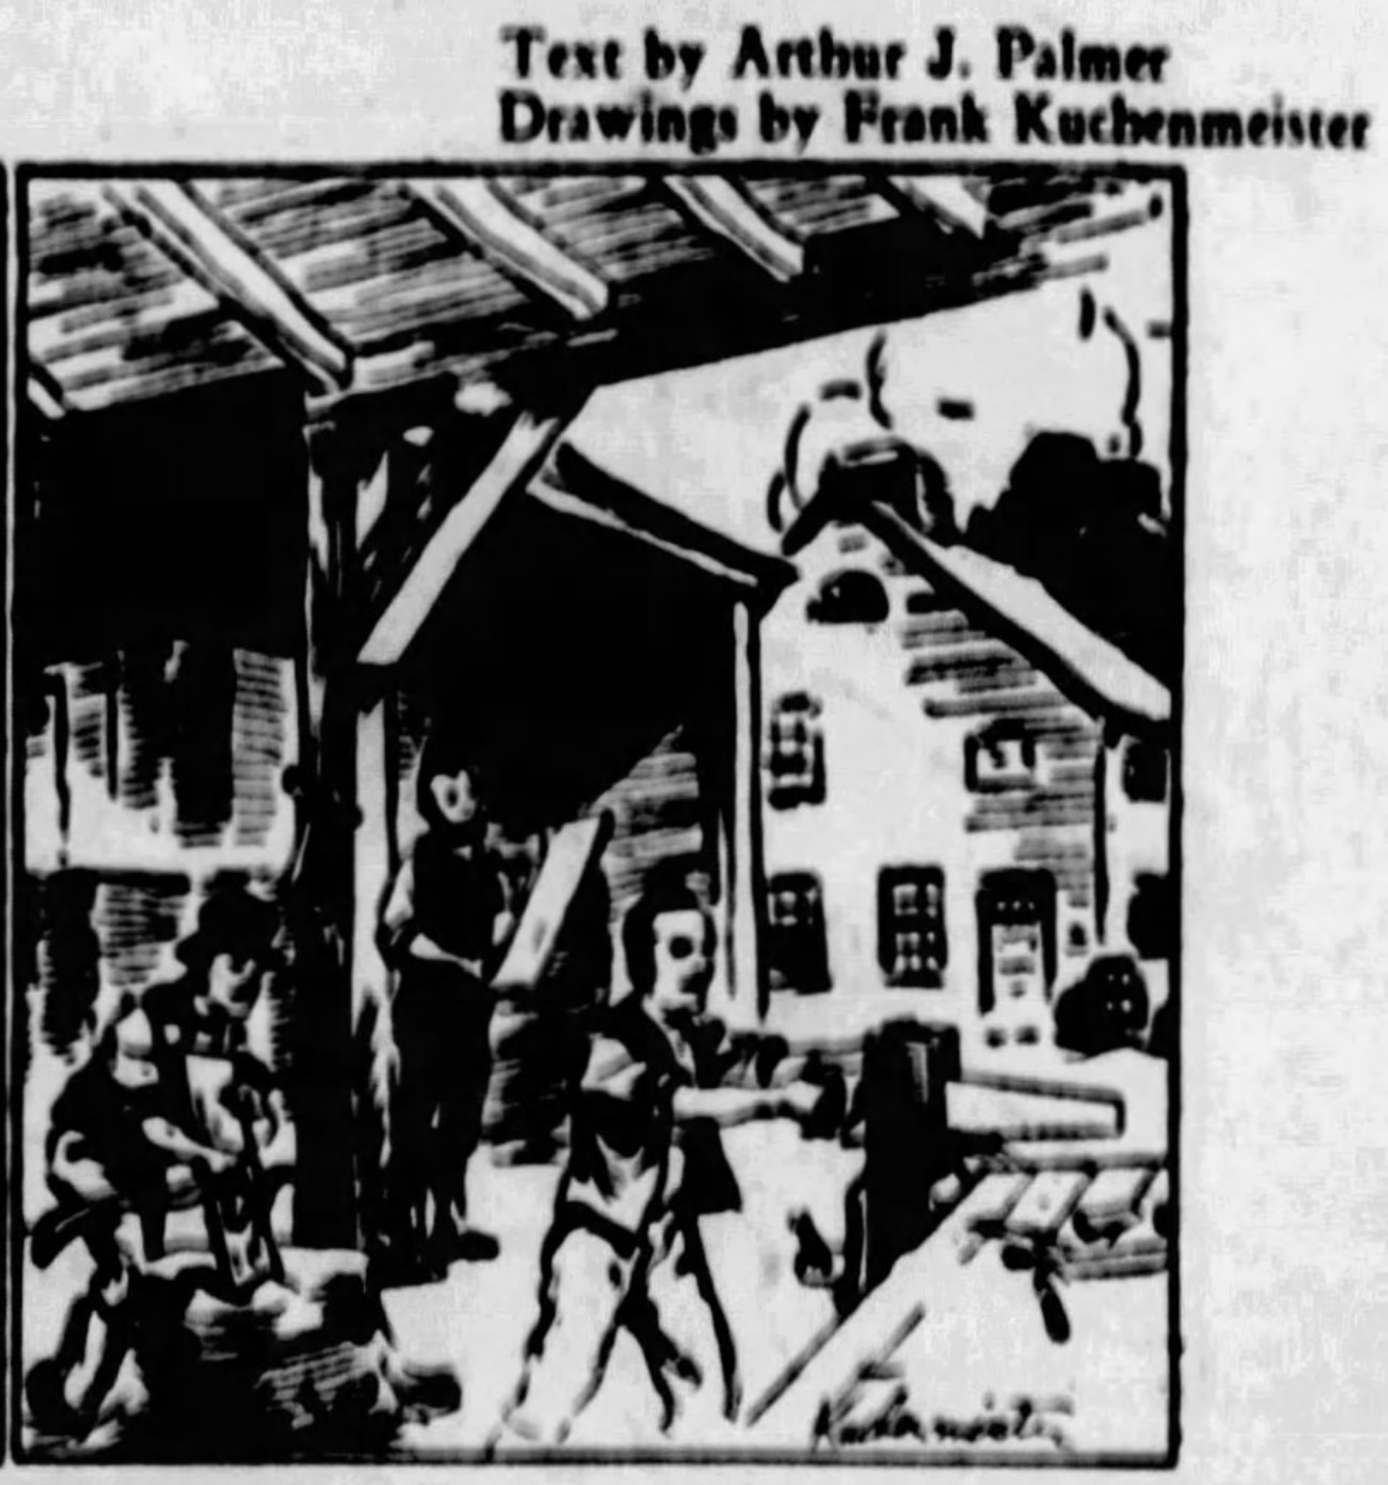
FROM the frontier town of Bayfield the nomadic John Edison moved his family to Vienna, Ontario, on the north shore of Lake Erie. It was there that Thomas Alva's father, Samuel, son of John, found his life-mate in Miss Nancy Elliott, school teacher and descendant of Capt. Ebenezer Elliott, an old revolutionary soldier. Samuel married pretty Miss Elliott in 1828.



SAMUEL inherited his father's independence of political thought and fearlessness in making his views known. His vigorous championship of an adopted cause was perfectly natural to his six feet of extraordinary physique and his personal dominance. Many were the heated discussions that kept things lively at the quaint little Vienna hotel owned and managed by Samuel Edison.



TAXATION without representation found no more bitter opponent in Canada than Samuel Edison. So prominent did he become in the insurgent forces, that he was forced to choose between exile to Bermuda and escape to the United States. The latter being preferable, the family departed on a 180-mile journey through a country infested with hostile Indians.



UP and down the shores of Lake Erie the Edison family wandered for a year or more and finally settled in the picturesque village of Milan, Ohio, in 1842. Here Samuel Edison found a prosperous community amid great wheat-fields. While he devoted his time to several enterprises his chief occupation was the sawing, splitting and shaving of shingles. (Continued tomorrow.)
